BRITISH AND FRENCH ATTACK ON A 20-MILE FRONT

CALLING UP MEN FOR EXAMINATION IN DRAFT HERE

Fifth and Ninth Wards Will Be First to Get Under Way With This Work.

CALL OUT FOR FRIDAY

Preparations Are Going Forward Rapidly in All Wards of the City.

With master draft lists in the hands of the exemption boards of all the 25 St. Louis wards, preparations for the first examinations of drafted men are going forward rapidly, and at least two boards have applied their own interpretations to the regulations to enable them to get an early start.

Interpretation of Regulations

In making the call for that time they have interpreted the regulations to mean that the first one-third may be examined in the fifth day after notices are mailed, counting the day upon which the notices were put in the mail. These two boards sent out their first notices last night and posted the names of the men who will be examined on the first day. All other boards hold that the fifth day must be determined by excluding the first day and counting the last, which would make the fifth day from last night fall on Saturday.

Fourth's Call for Monday

The Fourth Ward hoped to get a still earlier start, the board secretary, T. J. Winkler, having started notices calling the first group of men to report Thursday morning. He said he believed it was unnecessary to abide by the five-day regulation and that the local boards were supreme in the matter of setting examination dates. Just before he was ready to mail the notices, however, R. J. W. Foster, executive officer of the board, advised him to conform to the letter of the regulations and the date for the first examination was changed to Monday.

The First Ward to Post a Complete List of its registered men in the order in which they were drafted, as required by law, was the Twenty-third, of which F. H. Kreisemann is executive officer. The list was posted yesterday afternoon, together with lists of the men who are to appear for examination on each of the three days beginning Saturday and continuing Sunday and Monday. By working on Sunday this ward will be one of the first to finish its work, as the Fifth and Ninth Wards will omit Sunday and have their last examinations on Monday.

Examinations on Sunday

Kreisemann said his ward was able to complete its list early because of the help obtained from the use of the master list numbers as printed in the Post-Dispatch. He said the board decided to hold examination on Sunday in order to inconvenience workmen as little as possible. The examinations will begin at 7:30 o'clock each of the three mornings at the board headquarters in the Newstead Avenue Police Station.

Examinations in most of the wards will begin Monday morning, although a few may not get started until Tuesday.

The following today said they would be ready to commence Monday: Fourth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Seventeenth, Twenty-second and Twenty-sixth.

The Twenty-seventh Ward expects to start on Saturday and finish Tuesday.

The Sixteenth Ward expects to hold its first examinations either Saturday or Monday. The Twentieth Ward did not expect to get started before Tuesday and the Twenty-eighth said its first call probably would be for Tuesday.

Protest from the Fourth

Secretary Winkler of the Fourth Ward board said his board would protest today to Gov. Gardner that the ward's quota, 217, is too large. The ward has 347 registered, but of these, he said, 130 are aliens, who are exempted by the law. This is one of the so-called river wards, being bounded by the Mississippi River, Carr street on the south, Tyler street and Cass avenue on the north and Twenty-third street on the west.

Winkler declared that the ward had a large number of the criminal element and of morally degenerate men who would not be fit for service.

He said there probably would be 60 exempted because of dependents, 40 as specially unfit, and that there would be left not more than 40 eligible men from which to choose the quota of 217. This would require, he said, that practically every registered man in that ward be examined at this time.

Fifth Ward List Posted

The list of men to be examined Friday by the Fifth Ward was posted yesterday in the office of the board on the second floor of the Jefferson Hotel. Dozens of men called there this morning to learn the order in which they stand

THREE MEN IN FIRST DRAFT LOSE LIVES AT BENTON, ILL.

Two Are Killed Under Trains and the Third, a Township Clerk, Shoots Self.

BENTON, Ill., July 31.—Lewis Luster of Ledford, Ill., was run over and killed by an Illinois Central freight train west of Benton this morning. He was in the first draft.

Barney Fry, 28 years old, a motorman at No. 9 Mine of the Old Ben Mining Co., was killed last night when caught in a wreck of eight coal cars. His was the fifty-ninth number drawn in the draft.

Orval Hooneyham, 28 years old, clerk of Browning Township, ended his life by shooting himself at his home in Buckner last Sunday.

Domestic trouble is said to have been the cause. He was one of the first men drawn in the draft.

TRAFFIC MORE FATAL IN LONDON THAN AIR RAIDS

Deaths by Bombs 366 Compared With 2412 in Street Accidents Since War Began.

LONDON, July 30.—Since the beginning of hostilities 366 persons have been killed and 1062 injured by air raids in the London metropolitan area, according to a statement made by Sir George Cave, Home Secretary, in the House of Commons. During the same period, the Secretary noted, 2412 persons were killed and 7386 injured in ordinary street accidents in the same territory.

FAT $4 A POUND IN BERLIN

Rabbits $2.50 Each; Horse Flesh From 33 to 50 Cents a Pound.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Information concerning food costs in Germany received at the office of the food administration show that many articles, particularly those containing fats, are selling at almost prohibitive prices. Fat for frying is bringing more than $4 a pound. Goose fat is sold at $3.36 a pound. Poultry generally are high. Fresh fowls bring $1.01 a pound, landed goose breast $2.08, salted goose legs 94 cents, young country laying hens $3.32 each, well-fed geese $1.10 each. The egg ration at Hamburg for one week was one egg for each person. Horses are in great demand for food, and horseflesh sells at from 33 to 50 cents a pound. Rabbits are sold at $2 each. Cheese is quoted at from 38 to 56 cents a pound.

PIGEONS FOR U. S. IN FRANCE

Will Carry War Dispatches for Expeditionary Force.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 31.—The American army in France is to be equipped with homing pigeons to be attached to the Signal Corps. The first division of 2000 trained carrier pigeons gathered from members of the Texas branch of the American Racing Pigeon Association will be assembled at a point in the Southern Department and there given brief training on the French army system for service abroad in carrying dispatches through war zones and from aeroplanes to army headquarters. The French army pigeons return to moving lofts, carried by the army divisions.

DRILL TO PREPARE FOR DRAFT

Three Hundred Registrants in First Call, Learning Rudiments.

CHICAGO, July 31.—In preparation for the call to examinations of the new National Army, 300 registrants whose numbers will be in the first call to the colors, have organized and begun to learn the rudiments of military drill. They drilled last night on the campus of the University of Chicago under Maj. E. B. Tolman. A schedule of evening drills has been arranged and the men hope by their proficiency to win positions as non-commissioned officers when the intensive training begins at the Illinois camp at Rockford.

KAISER ON THE RIGA FRONT

COPENHAGEN, July 31.—A dispatch from Berlin says Emperor-William left Mitau, 25 miles southwest of Riga, Russia, and went down the river to the Riga front where he complimented the troops.

WAR TAX BILL IS FRAMED TO RAISE $2,080,000,000

Senate Committee Increases Charges on Incomes of Individuals and Corporations.

MORE LIQUOR REVENUE

New Schedule Calls for $3.20 a Gallon on Whisky, $3.25 a Barrel on Beer.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Increase of the pending $1,670,000,000 war tax bill to a total of $2,080,000,000 was decided upon today by the Senate Finance Committee. Increases on corporations' normal income taxes, on incomes of individuals of $15,000 and over, and a further increase of $1 per gallon on distilled spirits and 50 cents a barrel more on beer, with a few other minor tax increases, will make up the additional levy.

The committee decided to increase the present 2 per cent normal rate on corporate incomes to 6 per cent, as against 4 per cent in the bill as originally drawn. It is expected to yield $162,000,000 additional revenues. The increase in surtax rates on individual incomes of $15,000 and more, was estimated to raise from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 additional New excess profits taxes will be agreed upon later.

In revising the liquor schedules, the committee estimated that by adding $1 a gallon to the tax on distilled spirits, making it $3.20 a gallon—$2.10 over the present law—$90,000,000 more revenue would be obtained from that source.

The increase of 50 cents a barrel on beer is estimated to yield $25,000,000 more revenue, making the beer tax $2.15 a barrel as compared with $1.50 under existing law and $2.75 as originally proposed in the bill.

The exact rates of the surtax increases on individual incomes of $15,000 and more were not decided.

The income tax increases would result in a total levy upon corporate and individual incomes of the war of at least $1,048,700,000, as compared with a yield of $330,000,000 a year under existing law. The original bill provided for additional war levies upon all incomes of $42,700,000 and the committee's decisions would add at least $187,000,000 more.

In view of the heavy increase for incomes, it was stated that the committee might decide against a further increase on excess profits.

The additional taxes on liquor would increase revenues from that source from $155,500,000 to at least $270,000,000, with the increase of $90,000,000 from distilled spirits and $25,000,000 from beer.

Senator Simmons also stated that wine taxes also will be increased, but a decision as to the rate was not made. The committee plans, however, to raise $5,000,000 more revenue from wines, more than double the new taxes proposed in the original bill, estimated to yield $5,000,000.

IDENTIFIES MAN AS ONE OF TWO $1500 PAYROLL BANDITS

Cashier of P. L. Horn Trunk Co. Sure Suspect Took Part in Holdup a Month Ago.

Cornelius Joseph Murphy, 28 years old, of the Strand Hotel, was identified today by Francis Murphy, cashier of the P. L. Horn Trunk Co., Eighth and Howard streets, as one of two men who robbed him of a $1500 payroll at Eighth and Howard a month ago.

Murphy was arrested on information furnished by Jeanette Roberts of the Strand Hotel, who recently told the police she would help them clear up gang murders and robberies. Murphy was arraigned in Judge Kruska's court today on two charges of larceny growing out of thefts of automobiles. He has a police record.

POLL SHOWS DRY RESOLUTION WILL PASS THE SENATE

68 Members for Prohibition, Four More Than Necessary Two-Thirds.

DEBATE IS CONTINUED

Vote Will Be Taken Tomorrow; Underwood Opposes the Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Debate continued in the Senate today on the national prohibition resolution. A vote will be taken tomorrow.

A poll taken by newspaper correspondents shows the resolution will be passed. This poll shows:

For the resolution: Democrats, 37; Republicans, 31; total, 68; doubtful, 2. Against the resolution: Democrats, 14; Republicans, 12; total, 26. Necessary for adoption (with all members present), 64.

Senator Sheppard, author of the resolution, opened the debate yesterday and was followed by Senator Underwood in a brief speech against the resolution. The only other speakers were Senators Ashurst and Shafroth, both of whom supported it.

The constant activity of the liquor interests is a peril to free institutions, Senator Sheppard told the Senate, and alcoholic liquor itself is a menace to the nation's health, morals and efficiency. Organized labor, he said, has been asked to oppose prohibition because bartenders and brewery and distillery employees are members of unions.

"Labor is asked to imperil its very existence," said the Texas Senator, "to take food and clothes from men, women and children to sustain a traffic in rum, hunger, disease, insanity and death for the masses, while liquor barons thrive in luxury."

"If the liquor traffic is to be eradicated, aid of the Federal Government must be invoked. The partnership of the liquor traffic and the Federal Government is one of the most frightful heritages of the Civil War."

Senator Underwood declared adoption of the amendment would tend to centralize our Government under a police autocracy such as Germany and Austro-Hungary, entrenching national authority and weakening sovereignty of the people.

"I see no reason why we cannot now trust as in the past, the enlightened electorate of each state to pass necessary laws for domestic control of their own people," the Alabama Senator continued. "If the Federal Government is once called on to enter the field, it is called on to enter it as a petty viceroy in respect to matters authorized by this resolution, it will not be long before efforts will be made to further extend police powers of the Federal Government, and this will destroy state boundaries and abolish state governments."

BIG ALTON BLACKBERRY CROP

The blackberry crop in the vicinity of Alton is unusually good this year. The berries are large and the quality good. There are many of them.

Many blackberries are growing wild in the woods and along the roads in the vicinity of Bethalto, Moro and Liberty Prairie.

FAIR WEATHER TONIGHT AND TOMORROW; CONTINUED WARM

THE TEMPERATURES.

1 a. m.	62	11 a. m.	80
2 a. m.	62	Noon	82
3 a. m.	62	1 p. m.	82
4 a. m.	62	2 p. m.	82
5 a. m.	62	3 p. m.	82

Yesterday: High, 85, at 3 p. m.; low, 76, at 8 a. m.

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Fair tonight and tomorrow; not much change in temperature.

DISARM THE BLEACHERS.

The most intense hot wave of the year continued today in the central valleys, the Middle Atlantic states, New England and the lower lake region.

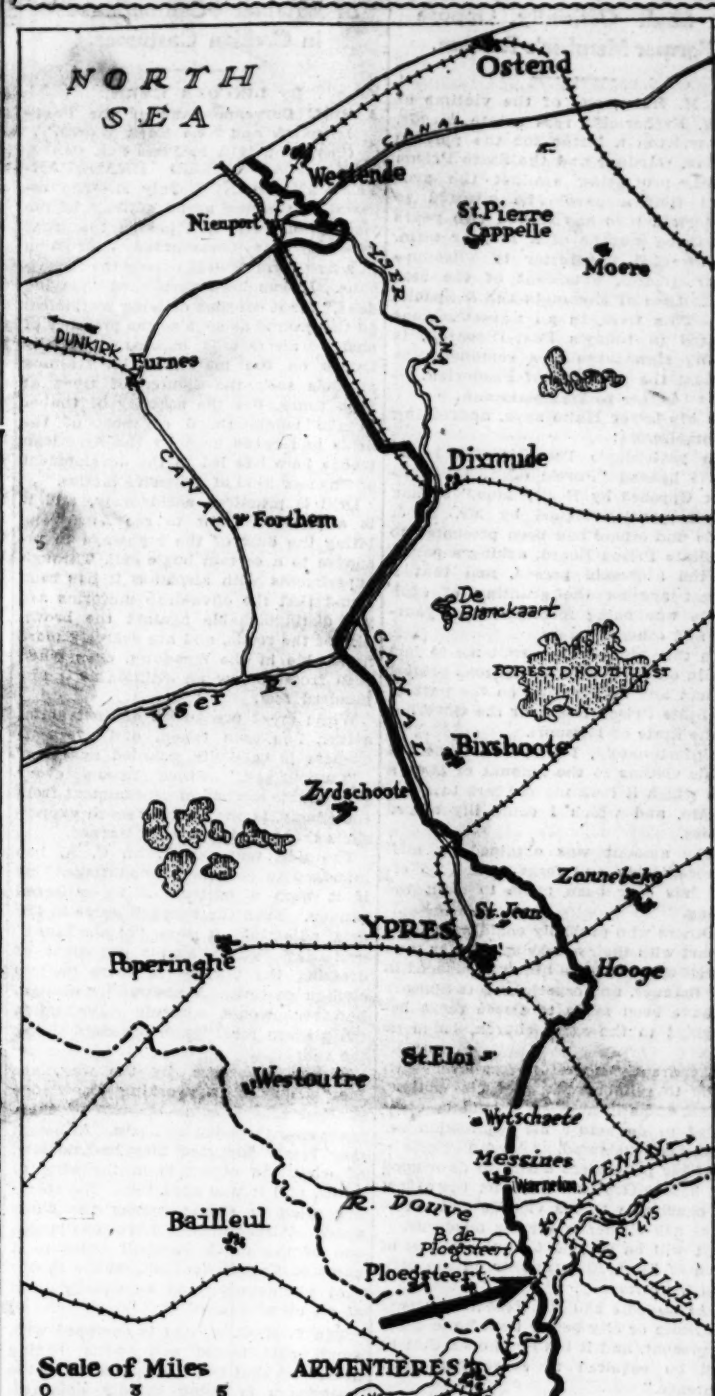

Weather Bureau officials hold out no promise of relief during the next two days.

From the Rocky Mountain region westward, and from Montana eastward, through the Upper Lake region today, moderate temperatures prevailed. In the south and southwest, high temperatures prevailed. Local thunder showers at some points may bring temporary relief.

Missouri: Generally fair with continued high temperature tonight and tomorrow, except partly cloudy and not quite so warm tomorrow in northwest portion.

Illinois: Generally fair with continued high temperature this afternoon and tonight; tomorrow partly fair in south portion, partly cloudy, probably with local thunder showers and not quite so warm in north portion.

NEW BEER TAX LIKELY TO THIN OUT SALOONS

Brewer Predicts Price of $10 a Barrel to Retailers, and Disappearance of 5-Cent Glass.

BELGIAN FAMILY OF FOUR SHOT AS SPIES

Girl Refuses Offer of Freedom, Saying, Confession Might Cause 50 to Be Killed.

St. Louis brewers believe the proposed Government tax of $3.50 a barrel on beer, as projected in the Senate Finance Committee, will drive at least 1000 saloons in Missouri out of business.

Henry Nicolaus, president of the St. Louis Brewing Co., stated as much when informed today of the proposed $1.75 a barrel increase, and he, with Hugo A. Koehler, president of the Independent Breweries Co., asserted that the price of beer will be so greatly increased to saloonkeepers that they cannot afford to sell at 5 cents a glass.

Three dollars of the $3.50 Government tax on beer will be put on the saloonkeeper, Nicolaus declared, leaving the brewers to pay a tax of only 50 cents a barrel to the Government and 20 cents a barrel to the State.

Beer is now selling to the saloonkeeper at $7 for a 30-gallon barrel. The present Government tax is $1.50 a barrel. Should Congress fix the tax at $3.50 a barrel, Nicolaus stated, local brewers will increase the price to saloonkeepers to $10 a barrel at once.

Nicolaus declared that the war tax means an instant end to beer at five cents a glass and, that there would be no more bucket beer or bottle beer at five cents a bottle.

"Consumption will be so greatly decreased, should this tax become effective," he explained, "that the Government will profit little by the advance. There are hundreds of saloonkeepers in St. Louis barely making a living, and these will be put out of business."

Each saloon pays a state license of $20 a year, and the closing of 1000 would mean a loss in State revenue of $200,000. Nicolaus pointed out, aside from the 20 cents a barrel to the State dispensed through these saloons.

The Independent Breweries Co., operates five breweries in St. Louis and two in East St. Louis. The St. Louis Brewing Association is an organization composed of nine of the largest breweries in St. Louis.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis and its circulation is the largest of any newspaper in the city.

OFFENSIVE LAUNCHED IN FLANDERS; FIRST GERMAN LINE PASSED

Second-Line Trenches Reached Early at Points in Great Movement North of River Lys.

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN; FRENCH OPERATE ON LEFT

Assault Preceded by Greatest Barrage of Fire of the War—Guns Moves Forward and Progress Is Said to Be Satisfactory—Artillery Preparation Unparalleled.

By the Associated Press.

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, July 31.—The entente allies, which launched their offensive this morning, have advanced well beyond the shell-shattered front line German trenches. In many places they have reached the second line defenses on a twenty-mile front of attack, according to the early reports.

The British and French troops went into battle under cover of what perhaps was the greatest barrage fire ever seen during the war.

The entente artillery is moving forward and the whole situation is satisfactory in every particular.

Between Dixmude and Boesinghe (about 11 miles) the attackers reported they had secured the two first lines of trenches after having fought over the most difficult terrain imaginable. (Dixmude is in that part of the front about 15 miles from the sea where the Belgian army has been stationed since early in the war.)

The British again have captured La Bassee Ville, which they recently relinquished to the Germans.

The British and French forces are facing a large concentration of German artillery and fresh troops which have been rushed up.

The entente allies have established complete air superiority. The entente military officials say the morale of the Germans here is not up to the old standard.

LONDON, July 31.—British troops in conjunction with the French forces on their left attacked the German positions along a wide front north of the River Lys at 3:50 o'clock this morning.

The allied troops, according to a British official statement, have captured their first objectives on the whole front and are reported to be making satisfactory progress at all points.

A considerable number of prisoners already have been captured by the French and British.

The official British statement says: "In conjunction with the French troops operating on our left we attacked at 3:50 o'clock this morning on a wide front north of the River Lys."

"The allied troops have captured their first objectives on the whole front attacked, and are reported to be making satisfactory progress at all points."

"Considerable numbers of prisoners already have been captured."

Fire Heavy for Many Days

The British offensive has been expected for some time, the official communications for several days having recorded unparalleled artillery fire and aerial activity in Flanders. That the Germans expected an attack was shown by the Kaiser's telegram to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, published Sunday, in which he referred to the violent bombardment and said the Germans "dauntlessly await the future," and to the references in German official communications "to the unprecedented shell fire. The official statement issued in Berlin Sunday said the artillery duel in Flanders had reached the greatest intensity of the war. The Germans evidently brought up many batteries in an effort to counteract the effect of the British fire. They bombarded many British positions and shelled many roads of communication, although it has been said the British fire has been twice as heavy as that of the Germans. The sound of the heavy guns has been heard in London several times in the evenings when the noise of street traffic subsided.

Last night's official report from British headquarters said: "A party of our troops raided the enemy's trenches last night near Lombaertzyde. The hostile artillery was more active than usual during the day in the neighborhood of Armentieres."

Airplanes Caught in Storm

"Saturday night bombs were dropped by our airplanes on a German aerodrome, two important railway stations and an ammunition depot, where fires and explosions were caused. Bombing operations continued yesterday and there was great activity in the air until 10 o'clock in the morning, when a severe and sudden thunderstorm prevented further flying. Many of our airplanes were caught in the storm and four have not returned."

"In the air fighting four German airplanes were brought down and two others were driven down out of control. Six of ours are missing, including those lost in the storm."

The battle front north of the River Lys stretches from Warneton on the Franco-Belgian border to the North Sea coast, the distance between these two points being about 30 miles. Included in this battle area is the famous Wytschaete-Messines salient where the British, on June 7, after expending 1,000,000 pounds of high explosives under the German lines, attacked 20 a mile-front and captured

BRITISH CASUALTIES IN JULY 71,832 MEN

LONDON, July 31.—British casualties in all theaters of military operations published by newspapers during the month of July total 71,832 officers and men.

The officers killed or wounded or missing total 250, while the men number 69,529.

Great Britain has more than 4,000,000 men under arms, although many of these are in England. She is operating in France, in the Balkans, in Egypt, in Mesopotamia and in German East Africa, and she has heavy batteries of artillery on the Italian front, and guns and armored cars on the Russian front.

Any great success in Belgium would enable the allies to strike at the German submarine bases on the Belgian coast. This is the first great operation attempted on the Belgian front, near the sea, since the war began.

Most gratifying to observers in the British capital is the fact that the French, who have been withstanding powerful attacks on the Chemin-de-Dames, are able to bring up fresh troops for co-operation with the British in a great movement such as that begun today.

STRONG ATTACKS BEGUN, SAYS BERLIN

Infantry Battle Started on Wide Front From Yser to Lys, Germans Declare.

BERLIN, via London, July 31.—Strong attacks by the entente allies have commenced along a wide front from the Yser to the Lys in Flanders (about 20 miles), says the official statement issued today by the general staff. The infantry battle in Flanders, the statement adds, has thus opened.

Russia Denies Rumor Was Due to German Thrust

PETROGRAD, July 31.—An official communication strongly repudiates recent claims made in German wireless dispatches that the Russian army was on the Southwest Russian front was due to a German thrust which the British, French and Russian authorities were powerless to prevent.

"Who does not know," says the communication, "that the Russian retirement is to be explained by the instability of the Russian army, due to a combination of recent events and not, as the Germans allege, to operations according to the plan made by the German troops?"

"In the persistent repetition of the same allegation is clearly revealed the German yearning to incite mistrust among the entente countries and arouse the peoples against their Governments. It is necessary to repeat hundreds of times that the true significance of this German provocative activity was long since found out and that all efforts to violate the integrity of Russia's entente with her allies are absolutely hopeless."

Russians Who Made Stand in Bukovina Forced to Retire

BERLIN, via London, July 31.—Russian forces which made a stand in Western Bukovina, says the official statement issued today by the general staff, were forced yesterday to evacuate their Chernomosh line and to retire to the Turov line.

It was announced last night that the Teutonic troops had crossed to Russian territory after the battle east of Zbrocz (northeast of Tarnopol).

"Today's announcement also says that in the direction of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, the Austro-German forces have captured Werncanka and Slatyn.

In the wooded Carpathian area the Teutons forced the Russians to abandon their positions in the Meste-Canaste sector.

Russians Restore Position at Zbrocz; Retire Elsewhere

PETROGRAD, July 31.—North of Husiatyn, on the Russo-Galician frontier, the Russians yesterday restored their position on the east bank of the river Zbrocz, says the official statement, issued today by the War Department.

Austro-German efforts to force a passage across the Zbrocz, in the region of Pukliany and Podlipa, were frustrated.

The Teuton forces, the statement says, pressed back the Russians in the region of Dorochow, Zastavna, Uverczanka and Orzechy.

South of the Kimpolung road, on the Rumanian front, the Austro-Germans also pressed back the Russian lines.

Zalesk has been evacuated by the Russians under heavy pressure.

On the Rumanian front fortified positions on the right bank of the river Putna, northwest of Sovela, were captured by the Rumanians.

BATHERS START RIOT WHEN POLICE MADE IN AND ARREST 7

Headed Rebel at Attempt to Enforce Law Against Night 21 Age in Lake Michigan.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Seven persons are under bond to appear for trial today as the result of a riot at a beach in Lincoln Park last night. Several thousand persons, including spectators, are said to have taken part in the riot when police attempted to enforce an ordinance forbidding bathing at the beach except between the hours of 4 and 8 in the morning.

Following the excessive heat of the day, several hundred persons living in the vicinity of the beach sought relief in Lake Michigan. When they were ordered by the police to leave the water they refused, and the policemen were forced to wade into the water to make the arrests.

Those arrested were taken to the police station in a patrol wagon, after the crowd tried to effect their release and threw a storm of missiles at the officers. A demonstration also occurred at the police station until the prisoners were released on bond.

The beach is located on the "gold coast" or fashionable driveway on the North Side. A test case will be made on the ordinance.

IRON FOR SWEDEN REFUSED

U. S. Acts on Report Country Is Exporting Iron to Germany.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—License for shipment of 280 tons of pig iron to Sweden has been refused by the expert license division through fear the iron might find its way to Germany. A report made by British agents and forwarded to this Government recently indicated that Sweden was exporting large quantities of pig iron and iron ore to the central Powers.

One rule that is being followed in administration of the export control is that all licenses will be refused for shipments to the northern European neutral countries when these nations are selling in Germany the identical commodities for which a license is refused.

ONE OF FIRST DRAFTED MEN TO RECEIVE CALL

ANTONIO BALSOMA.

VARIED EXEMPTION CLAIMS BY MEN HERE

Italian, One of First Who Will Be Examined, Says He Has Dependant Mother.

Antonio Balsoma, 26 years old, of 820 Wash street, one of the first two men to be called for examination in St. Louis for the draft army, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter this afternoon that he was willing to fight, but that he would claim exemption on the ground that his mother, Mrs. Rosa Balsoma, who lives in Italy, is dependent on him.

Balsoma is employed at the Viviano Bros. macaroni factory. He said his three younger brothers were soldiers in the Italian army, and that he had been sending his mother $10 to $20 a month. If she could be otherwise provided for, he said, he would have no objection to fight.

Balsoma has been in America 12 years.

Ten other men who will be summoned in order, after Balsoma, were looked up by Post-Dispatch reporters to find if they are ready to serve or will claim exemption.

Mack Hirsch, 26 years old, a salesman, of 2132 Carr street, the second man in the fifth ward to be notified to appear for physical examination, will claim exemption because of flat feet, according to his sister, Mrs. Becky Friedman.

He is single. He moved from 2109 Wash street to the Carr street address after the draft.

The wife of John Lechler, a shoe worker, 27 years old, of 906 North Elm street, did not know what her husband would do. He was away, working.

Curt Wells, 26 years old, a shoe worker, of 214 North Sixteenth, will claim exemption on the grounds that his wife is dependent on him for support and that he is making shoes for the Government.

M. Reenick, 21, of 1329 Carr street, a jeweler's clerk, will claim exemption. When his father was asked if his son would claim exemption he said, "Sure." He said that his son was nearsighted and had worn glasses for 10 years and that he was needed at home. He is unmarried. There is a younger brother who does not live at home.

Jake Fingelstine, 21, of 1729 Carr street, an express wagon driver, will claim exemption on the grounds that he is the support of his widowed mother. He is unmarried. There are eight in the family, including one brother who is 19 years old. His mother and father were separated 12 years ago.

H. Nolsjoly, 17 1/2 Wash street, a shoe worker, left the city July 6 and left no forwarding address, according to persons living at the house.

F. Selick, 1301A Washington avenue, left two weeks after registration. Persons at that address say he had but one eye.

Lono Hunson, 1329 Morgan street, is a negro laborer, 25 years old. A negro at that address said today he was afraid of the draft and was going back South to his wife and family.

Fred Salter, 30 years old, rear 1767 Franklin, is a teamster for a junk man. A negro at that address declared he was too bowlegged for military service.

David Haynes, a negro, 122 North Thirtieth street, could not be found. He was the eleventh man called in this ward. Neighbors said that he had left St. Louis shortly after the draft. They did not know where he had gone.

NAVARRE COMING TO AMERICA

LONDON, July 31.—Jean Navarre, a famous French aviator, will go to America, hoping to be of some assistance to the American air service, according to information received here today by associates. He probably will be accompanied by Georges Carpentier, the boxer aviator.

It has been reported that efforts were being made to bring Navarre and Carpentier to this country, but the foregoing dispatch is the first information that appears to be positive that he will come. Navarre had won all the honors France has to give for aviators when he was seriously wounded last June.

REAL ESTATE MEN MEET

Exchange to Consider Whether It Shall Officially Oppose Former Member's Release.

E. M. Hake, one of the victims of A. H. Frederick's real estate frauds, has written a letter for the perusal of Gov. Gardner and the State Prison Board, protesting against the proposal that a parole be granted to Frederick, who has served two years and three months of a 10-year term. He directed the letter to Theodore Hemmelmann, president of the real estate firm of Hemmelmann & Spackler. This firm, in an advertisement printed in today's Post-Dispatch, is asking signatures to a remonstrance against the paroling of Frederick.

Letter to Hemmelmann.

In his letter Hake says, addressing Hemmelmann:

"In yesterday's Post-Dispatch is an article headed 'Parole of A. H. Frederick Opposed by Realty Men,' stating that a petition signed by Mr. F. J. Wade and others had been presented to the State Prison Board, asking a parole for the aforesaid person, and that a protest against the granting of such parole was being formulated by yourself and others.

"In this connection permit me to join you in entering a most vigorous protest against any such action on the part of the State Prison Board or the Governor of the State of Missouri.

"Unfortunately, it happened to be one of my victims to the amount of $3000, a sum which it took me 15 years to accumulate, and which I could ill afford to lose.

"The amount was obtained by misrepresentation and forgery, and no force has ever been made to right the wrong.

"Others who probably could not afford to part with their money any better than myself seem to have been confided in like manner, and special effort appears to have been made to fleece these victims to the same church, lodge or club.

"Apparently no effort has ever been made to reimburse any of his victims, which, if he is able, he should be compelled to do before his application for parole is considered.

"If his petitioners desire to do a good act before God and man, let them first make acknowledgment to his victims and afterward ask clemency for his misdeeds.

"It will be noticed that the names of none of his victims appear on the petition for clemency.

"At no time has Mr. Frederick served his State or city better than he is doing at present, and it is to be hoped that he will be required to serve his entire sentence."

Realty Men Meet.

The directors of the Real Estate Exchange met this afternoon to consider their official action on the parole proposal. The same body last December passed a resolution opposing clemency for anyone convicted of real estate frauds.

Charles Christian Crone, who is serving a 10-year term for offenses like Frederick's, has not asked for a parole, but his lawyer, Campbell Cummings, said today that Crone would certainly be entitled to release if Frederick was, as he was older than Frederick, in poorer health, and as, in the lawyer's view, his offenses were less aggravated.

'PLAYING DEAD' IS NEW DRILL FOR PERSHING'S MEN

It consists of Lying Still on Ground When Enemy Aircraft Is Sighted.

PART OF DAILY PRACTICE

American Soldiers Play Game of Baseball "Camouflaged" in Civilian Costumes.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

(Copyright, 1917, by Press Pub. Co.)

AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, July 31.—The new drill of American soldiers in the vicinity of Paris and behind the front generally has necessitated instruction in a new form of drill among the Americans.

It has been christened "playing dead," for it consists of lying motionless on the ground as soon as the presence of enemy aircraft is sighted. Usually troops on the march or on training grounds seek the shelter of trees at such times, but the scarcity of timber in the neighborhood of most of the fields and roads used by the American troops here has led to the development of this new kind of defensive tactics.

Drill is practiced assiduously, and it is a common sight to see Americans biding the dust of the highways in response to a certain bugle call. Through experiments with airplanes it has been found that the olive-drab uniforms are not distinguishable against the brown dirt of the roads, and are scarcely more noticeable in the meadows, even when seen from so low an altitude as a few hundred feet.

While great precaution against aerial attack has been taken, and over-caution is carefully guarded against, "camouflage," which means every conceivable method of concealment from the enemy, is one of the French expressions the Americans have learned.

The first test the Y. M. C. A. has managed to open is "camouflaged" as if it were a battery of big-caliber cannon. Even the baseball game in the field adjoining it, it was "camouflaged" yesterday by the simple expedient of dressing the players in more or less civilian costume. A marauding alman, however, would scarcely have taken the players for French peasants tilling the soil.

French chateaus, by the way, are fast acquiring a working knowledge of baseball. I came on two of them practicing throwing to bases. Although they freely admitted they had no idea of what the object is in throwing to bases, still it was good fun. The sporting spirit is strong among the chateaus. Already they have challenged one of the crack baseball nines to a game of English football, on the theory that ballplayers must be equally good at all other games.

The Y. M. C. A. tent is equipped with small pool tables and with boxing gloves, so that the sporting scope of the Americans is being rapidly enlarged. The "movies" taken by the army camera of yesterday's ball game brings the total amount of film made so far to 5000 feet. One of the biggest movie studios in Paris has been rented by the cinematograph section and here 100,000 feet of film can be turned out every week.

Several good photographs which will be given out through the War Department at Washington have also been obtained.

HOUSE ASKED TO COMMIT U. S. TO IRISH HOME RULE

Resolution Would Direct President to Urge Its Establishment on Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—That the Irish home rule question has become an international one, in which the United States has as much right to a voice as has Great Britain, was declared on the floor of the House yesterday by Joseph McLaughlin, president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America. He was born in Burt, County Donegal, Ireland, in 1867, and is a Republican member-at-large from Pennsylvania.

McLaughlin introduced a resolution that the President and the Secretary of State be directed to "make such representations to Great Britain as shall result in the establishment of a government in Ireland similar to the Government that now exists in Canada."

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

PEACE OPTIMISM OF ERZBERGER NOT SHARED IN BERLIN

Officials Say Centrist Leader, Discussing Immediate Negotiations, Speaks Privately.

PAPERS ASSAIL HIM

Tagblatt, Reviewing Third Year of War Says Military Strength Is Increased.

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, via London, July 31.—The German official word is apparently not inclined to share the optimism which Matthias Erzberger exhibited in the recent interview he gave in Zurich and which has burst in upon Berlin today.

As against the statement alleged to have been made by the Centrist leader to a Swiss editor, official circles here pointed to Chancellor Michaelis' recent speech. When the Associated Press correspondent inquired whether Erzberger's presence in Switzerland and his announced ambition to sit at table opposite Premier Lloyd George for the purpose of arranging a peace conference reflected the sentiments of the authorities of the German Government, the Foreign Office replied that Erzberger was traveling and talking in a private capacity.

"The German Chancellor," it was stated, "has demonstrated that he is a peace Chancellor by his endorsement of the Reichstag peace resolution, and since then, in the course of his address to the German journalists."

Peace Outlook Called Dark.

To this a foreign official added in talking with the correspondent:

"The recent speeches of Lloyd George, Bonar Law and Sir Edward Carson, however, would not seem to indicate that the foundation for a peace of reconciliation and compromise really exists. Other English and French utterances are equally incompatible with such an assumption."

Regarding the Erzberger interview the Cologne Gazette observes:

"After this interview Herr Erzberger cannot longer be taken seriously. However, for the sake of the public interest we would urgently request him to discontinue playing the role of Providence to the German people."

The Tages Zeitung says: "Herr Erzberger talks much, but in the long run everything cannot be overlooked."

The Germania, the Catholic organ, continues to defend the Centrist leader against attacks from within the ranks of his own party, asserting that while his peace agitation is wholly in accord with the Pope's recent communication, he is not influenced by the Vatican's attitude.

Review of Third Year of War.

In its review of the third year of the world war the Tagblatt points out that the armies of Germany and her allies have conquered more than half a million square kilometers of entente territory and asserts that the military strength of the central Powers, instead of decreasing, has increased, while that of France has visibly diminished. The newspaper says the German public has plainly announced its readiness for peace and expresses hope that common sense and a sincere desire for the cessation of hostilities will assert themselves in the ranks of Germany's adversaries.

It continues: "The end of the third year of the war finds the issue in the East and in the West undecided. For the moment interest in the military operations is focused upon Flanders and Galicia."

"The past year, however, has been fruitful of many instructive results. Above all, it may be asserted that the entente no longer has the disposal of unlimited production and supplies of ammunition, as was the case during the Somme battle. This cessation of munition reinforcement has had a noticeable effect on the Western front. And, whereas the material resources of our opponents have not increased and the strength of France has become visibly diminished, we still are unimpaired in our strength and more strongly fortified than ever before."

"He who is willing to be guided solely by the facts and will not permit himself to be deceived by illusions must admit that the ambition of our foes to crush us is today less justified than at any other period, and because this is so, we may be permitted to express the hope that common sense and a sincere desire for peace may finally assert themselves in the ranks of our opponents."

Says Public Is for Peace.

"The German public through its accredited representatives has plainly announced to the world at large its readiness for peace. We hope this expression will be appreciated in its full importance on the other side."

"The following offers an approximate picture of the area of occupied territory which now is held by the military forces of the central Powers measured in square kilometers (a kilometer is .621 of a mile):

"Belgium, 23,300; France, 13,220; Russia, 280,490; Rumania, 100,000; Serbia, 887; Montenegro, 14,130; Albania, 23,000. Total, 548,737.

"This total is opposed by 300 square kilometers of land held by the French and the Austro-Hungarian territory in Russian possession, measuring 35,500 square kilometers. The latter figure no longer holds good. It has been diminished by fully 60 per cent and is likely to fall away entirely in the near future."

QUESTION OF AUSTRIA

Germany Must Be Made Powerless or Free to Secure the Peace of Europe.

LONDON, July 31.—The statements by John Annan Bryce and others as to Great Britain's war aims, including Lord Buxton, who said that an unfortunate impression had not abroad in Europe, as a result of the speeches in the House of Commons last week, that Great Britain favored a policy of annexation, but would not define its aims, brought an interesting reply from A. J. Balfour, the Foreign Secretary, in the House of Commons yesterday.

Balfour declared the Government had been asked to declare its policy, but he was not sure it was wise to do so. The broad questions animating the Government had been expounded by the late and present Premiers, the Foreign Secretary and others who held high office in the last three years. When every ministerial statement was treated as a pledge, it was dangerous to accede to requests for definite announcements. With respect to the Yugoslav and Austrian question, said the Secretary, it was impossible to foretell the position in which the world would find itself when these problems came to be decided, and he would be doing a very ill service to the country were he to attempt to define the position now. The Government believed that the nationalities composing that heterogeneous empire should be allowed to develop along their own lines and to carry on their civilization in their own way.

Object on Entering War.
"An everybody knows," he continued, "the first object of the war is to defend Belgium and prevent France from being crushed before our eyes. Nobody with the smallest knowledge of the facts supposed that Sir Edward Grey (formerly Foreign Secretary) and the Government of which he was a member when he made the fateful declaration of Aug. 3, 1914, made it with the smallest thought of the great problems which the course of the war has opened up. We did not enter the war with any selfish purposes, certainly not for imperialistic aims or to get indemnities; therefore we stood in a different position from any of our allies. We hoped to see Europe freer and more stable."

If France asked him to refrain from going on to assist her until she got back to the position which existed before the attack engineered against her by Bismarck in 1871, namely, that "she obtain restoration of the position which she violently robbed more than 40 years ago."

Balfour expressed an opinion which was simply his own, when he said that if France asked him to refrain from going on to assist her until she got back to the position which existed before the attack engineered against her by Bismarck in 1871, namely, that "she obtain restoration of the position which she violently robbed more than 40 years ago."

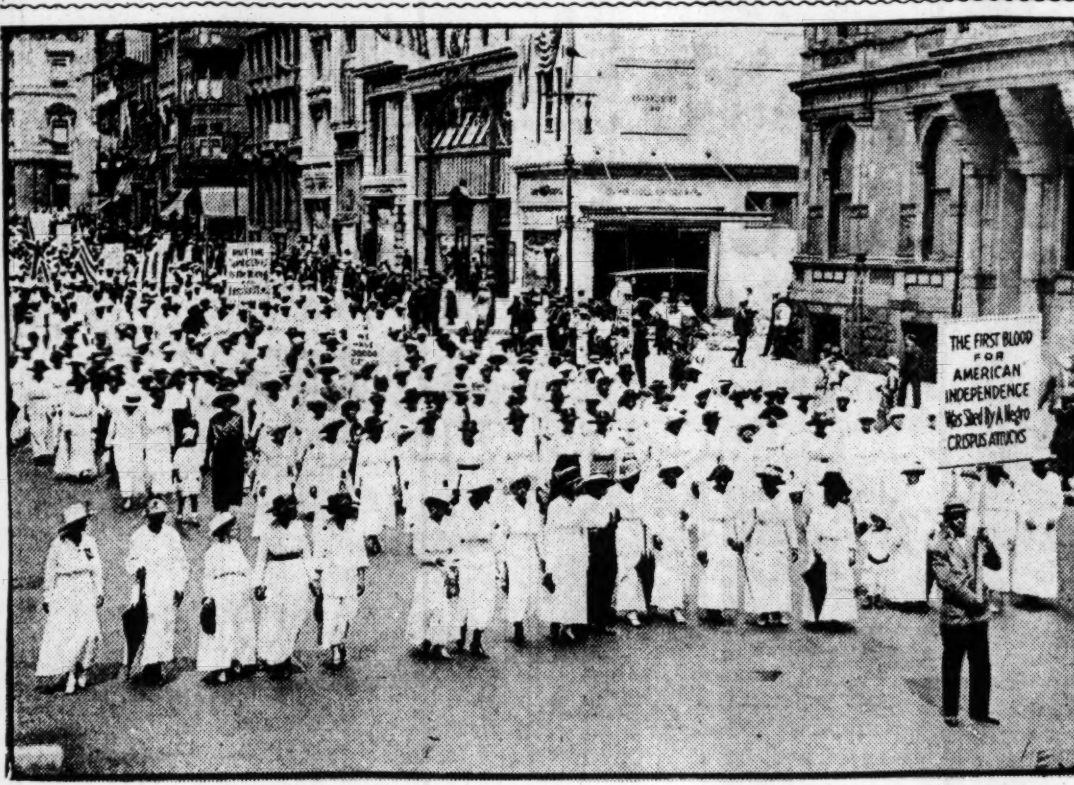

Democracy in Germany.
As to the democratization of Germany, said the Secretary, it had been hoped that autocracy would give place to parliamentary institutions as they were understood, but nobody was foolish enough to suppose that it would be possible to impose on Germany a constitution made outside of Germany. Until Germany was either made powerless or free he did not think the peace of Europe could be secured. The fight must go on, for if this war ended with a German peace, that would only be a prelude to a new European war. If the peace was to be one that England and America, which had no interest in the Continent, could approve, then it would lead to a permanent settlement which would in turn conduce to that great understanding of the nations which would give Europe a security it had never known before.

Must Save Herself.
"Germany must work out her salvation," continued Balfour. "You do not need me by imposing a constitution, even if you have the power. Nations must make their own scheme of liberty for themselves, according to their own ideas and based on their history, character and hopes."

"But if it is true that the great power of German imperialism is still depending upon the belief in the belief driven into the German nation by the wars of 1866 and 1870—that only under the imperial system can Germany be great, powerful and rich, then, if experience shows that the imperialist system can produce not merely a triumph one time but inevitably lead to corresponding disaster at another, it may well be that the views, which found such powerful expression in Germany in 1848 and which animated all German teachers for more than a generation before the Bismarckian domination will revive with new lustre, new strength, and that Germany, with all her powers of organization and all her inherited cultivation, will be added to those nations, which, before the war, could hardly conceive how a universal war of this sort could be deliberately provoked in order to further the commercial or political interests of any single community."

Disturber of the Peace.
"When Germany has come to the level of the United States and Great Britain in that respect, we may hope that one of the great disturbers of the peace will forever be eliminated. I do not know who will venture to say for a moment that, looking at the internal condition of Germany, as far as we are allowed to see it at the present time, the ideas of which I

It became public knowledge today that at a meeting of the officers of the Cornerstone Lodge, A. F. and M., on July 2, Paul O. Sommer of 308 Hartford street, former secretary of the Holman Paper Box Co., who was indicted on charges of grand larceny and embezzlement for alleged shortages in his accounts with the paper company, was expelled from the lodge.

It was said that on rare occasions a special meeting called for the purpose of expelling a member of the Masons.

John E. Schmid, secretary of Cornerstone Lodge, said it was a strict rule of the Masons not to divulge what transpires at meetings.

Sommer formerly was president of the St. Louis Turnverein and held office in both the State and St. Louis branches of the German-American Alliance. He was a leader in the Austro-German war relief bazaar held at the Longfellow boulevard, whom Sommer charged with slandering him in connection with the bazaar. Sommer later dropped the suit.

British Premier Finds Third Year of War Has Not Shaken Their Determination.

LONDON, July 31.—Addressing the press representatives in the gallery of the House of Commons yesterday, Premier Lloyd George referred to the buoyancy of the French nation after three years of war and said:

"I found during my visit to Paris the spirit of the French people was better than I had ever known it. There was a sense of discouragement at the collapse of the Russian armies, but the French were as resolute as ever. It depends very largely upon the French whether we shall get through to the end."

"If the French and ourselves hang together we shall get through to the end despite our Russian troubles. The Russians are an incalculable quantity. My latest information, however, is that Russia will recover and become as formidable as she ever has been."

GIRL SOLDIER FOR RUSSIA TELLS OF FIRST BATTLE

Woman's Battalion Comprised Front Line in Attack in Which She Was Wounded—
How She Killed German Trickster.

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEROT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PETROGRAD, July 31.—The story of the first in the Woman's Battalion to kill a German has just been given by the heroine herself, in the hospital where she lies wounded. She is Mary Golubovna, 18 years old, a high school student. Mary is tall and graceful, with pretty blue eyes, her blond hair, now short, giving her the appearance of a handsome boy. Laughing at the wounds which caused her to be sent to the hospital, she showed brilliant white teeth. Dictating to me her tale, she constantly made girlish gestures. She hid her face in the pillow and blushed when I asked if her admirers had objected to her going to the front. She toyed with a locket and a little bag at her neck. I learned that the bag contained cyanide of potassium for use in case she should be captured. All in the battalion carried a like bag.

Wants to Go Back to Front.
"I am wounded, they say," said the girl. "I call it mere scratches, but it may keep me from the front several weeks, after only two days' fighting. But at any rate, I was in the front trenches and I got my German. I am feeling better already, and hope to go back soon. I must go; my country needs me. That is why I enlisted."

"I saw soldiers in Petrograd demanding not to be sent to the front, and I realized that the country needed every man and woman who was not a coward. Then the Woman's Battalion was formed and I joined immediately. I have never regretted it. I was never afraid of the enemy. I was never afraid of a gun against the enemies again. I must fill the place of men who will not fight."

"Going to war is not too much for a woman. I was always strong. Still, being a woman I wondered if it would be so fatiguing. Once at the front, I forgot whether I was a man or a woman; I was just a soldier. The soldiers, the real brave soldiers, treated me like a comrade."

ARGENTINE PARADERS CARRY U. S. MARINES ON SHOULDERS

Americans Visit to French Military Exposition Arouses Wild Enthusiasm in Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, July 31.—Admiral Caperton and a delegation of officers and sailors of the American squadron yesterday paid a visit to the French military exposition, where they were greeted by the French Minister. An opportunity was given the Americans to examine some of the airplanes and tanks captured from the Germans, and also some of the French guns which figured in the battles of the Marne and Verdun.

In a parade in honor of the American visitors a colorful American flag covered with flowers was borne by 48 young girls, symbolizing the stars of the flag. American marines were hoisted on the shoulders of the South American comrades. The enthusiasm was extraordinary.

Admiral Caperton visited the Chamber of Deputies, where President Demaria delivered a eulogy on the United States.

AMERICAN NEWS COLORED TO FOOL GERMAN PEOPLE

Press Cleverly Controlled to Inflame Optimism as Aid to Seventh War Loan.

By CYRIL BROWN.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

STOCKHOLM, July 31.—With the seventh war loan approaching, the German press seldom has been more cleverly controlled for the purpose of inflaming popular optimism. Carefully sifted American news is being fed to the public to substantiate the theory that the United States cannot become a decisive military power before America is ready to take the field in force. The German press bristles with such headlines as "Conflict Danger Between Wilson and Congress," on the strength of a French agency dispatch, according to which, from Geneva, purporting to recite that "Wilson's pose of dictator has led to a conflict with the Senate" and that the fight between the two probably would result in a delay of war legislation.

The alleged controversy over the relative merits of wooden and steel ships also kindles hopes in Teuton breasts and the going of Goethals is interpreted as a sign of initial blundering and inefficiency. As a result of this, many apprehensive Germans, in whose imaginations America is looked on as a land of unlimited possibilities, are becoming incredulous about Uncle Sam's ever getting into his stride.

Regarding Goethals' going, a shipping specialist draws this comforting conclusion: "That Goethals was the opponent of the nonsensical wooden-ship idea can have caused for rejoicing if they manage to launch one-tenth of that tonnage."

From a Reuter report emanating from Washington the German people have learned that America is going to set up an army of 1,000,000 men instead of 500,000. This item is passed without comment.

With a zeal for fooling themselves amounting almost to genius, the Germans are not only managing to extract optimism from American news, but also from English news.

The neutral and the English press are being microscopically scanned for the effect of the submarine warfare on England's exports. Any pleasing material is offered to the public in consequence, particularly everything indicating alleged English or French pessimism regarding help from America.

Ships for Transport.
Prominence is given to the statement of Archibald Hurd in the Daily Telegraph that "the more America participates in war operations, the more ships it will require for transport purposes, and that it will be fully to count on any considerable Transatlantic tonnage."

This unwittingly confirms one of the theories held in the highest German military and naval circles which was one of the decisive arguments that helped launch the unlimited submarine warfare.

The effect of unfavorable news from Russia on American public opinion is being closely watched for in Germany. With few exceptions the Germans are leaping to the erroneous conclusion that the foreshadowed Russian disintegration as a serious war factor will act as a brake on America's actual and early large-scale participation in the war.

The German view is that Russia is rapidly becoming a decisive peace factor. The German people have learned also from a Washington dispatch to the London Times that Russian news has created alarm in America, and that Americans are fully aware that Russia, as a military factor already has been discounted by the American General Staff.

Members of the Washington University Ambulance Corps in France, and of Base Hospital Unit 21, the St. Louis Red Cross unit at Rouen, France, express in letters which have been lately received from members of those organizations. They are permitted to say this much in their letters, but cannot relate, in detail, their reasons for this expectation.

Lewis N. Davis, a member of the Washington University Ambulance unit, and a son of T. D. Davis of 5237 Vernon avenue, wrote to his parents a few days ago: "I cannot state the reason, but I feel sure I shall be home by Christmas, and peace will reign instead of this hell, which I surely is. I may be able to give you some description after I find the rules for censorship."

He says in another letter that German prisoners, lately captured, who were "just about starved," predicted that war would end in September or October, "because Germany is shy of food." He says he has found no food shortage in France, but that food is cheap and seems plentiful.

Letter Is Optimistic.
Thomas Dunville, a member of the hospital unit, has written to his mother, Mrs. Thomas Dunville of 6217 Minnesota avenue, saying: "Everyone here (Rouen) is optimistic about the war being over shortly. I would like to see it over before the other fellows from home arrive. None of our fellows will admit that he is homesick, although a number of his comrades did, and he later took a place as section mechanic with another ambulance unit, on its way to the front."

He describes his quarters in a village which had been leveled by German shell fire. There is not a roof left in the town, he says, and no wall more than 5 feet high.

"We stay in a dugout 15 feet under ground, which is quite cozy except for the rats, which are about half again as large as our variety. From the roof of the dugout the front line trenches can be dimly seen and the exploding shells make parts of them act like young volcanoes. Shells fired by the Germans can be heard whistling overhead as they are sent at the French batteries in the woods. By night a most beautiful view is available from the roof of the dugout. Rockets make the trenches brighter than day, and the artillery fire from our rear sends a spout of flame 20 or 40 feet, while sparks mark the course of the shells for several hundred yards. There is a fire somewhere all the time, which adds its glow to the color of the scene."

"When an incoming shell bursts the fragments are red hot and fly out in all directions, making the whole scene look like some artificial painting. I made two trips with bleases (wounded) to the hospital before dark, and at 12:30 midnight a Captain was brought in badly wounded and with little hope for recovery, so the Lieutenant in charge told me to take him in as quickly as possible. The night was dreadfully black, but I think I gave him the fastest ride he ever had. He was unconscious, so I did not slow down for bumps. The Lieutenant has phoned ahead to the hospital, which is about 25 miles, and when I arrived they could not believe that I was carrying the man they had been told was coming."

Puddle in Road as Guide.
"Lights are not even thought of, and I could not see my radiator cap, but it had rained all day and was still raining, so I followed the puddles that I knew must be the road, but when I returned to the post it had stopped raining and my next trip was very much more difficult, when I had four bleases. The food at the front is most exceptionally better than we were given in Paris or here."

Of another day's experience he writes: "Had but two hours' sleep, but felt fine. Roamed about the village and a shell exploded several hundred yards ahead of me, and I went in to see what it did and found, to my surprise, it exploded on a grave and blew most of the coffin and skeleton away and uncovered the skull of a German Captain, 'Ralph Zupp, killed in the field of honor,' according to the wooden cross marking his grave, in September, 1915. I immediately looked for the lower jaw and found it and now have them wired together. On my way back I found an old German revolver, said to be the type used in the Franco-Prussian War."

Dunville, in his latest letter to his mother, writes: "The only thing you can do is to go to the Y. M. C. A. take a walk or go to bed."

Tells of Visit to Rouen.
"Yesterday was my day off and I went to Rouen. Joan of Arc was burned there in 1731. There is a large slab of stone where she was burned and on the wall is a tablet telling all about her. Rouen is certainly a cosmopolitan place, and you can see everything from a negro to a West Indian. The river Seine runs right through the place, and all manner of boats run up and down. The street car system is a joke, and a St. Louis car would make three of these."

"I went into a park here and seeing a nice comfortable bench, I sat down. No sooner than I was seated, a girl came up to me and charged me with sitting there. They stick a tax on everything they can. All the boys were anxious to see London, but were disappointed as we chose another route."

Called to Army Service at 72.
St. Charles Man, on Retired List, Probably Will Occupy Clerkship.

Post Commander Patrick Lynch of Lost Post G. A. R. of Jerseyville, one of the oldest soldiers on the United States retired list, was called to service and sent to Jefferson Barracks to report for duty yesterday.

Lynch, who is 72 years old, saw service during the Civil War, and subsequently in the South and Southwest. He was in the service 30 years. He probably will be assigned to a clerkship in the Quartermaster's department. He received notice several months ago to be ready to report for duty.

COMEDY ACT IN 'PEN' INQUIRY AT JEFFERSON CITY

Acting Warden Painter Draws a Laugh When He Threatens Athletic Reporter.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31.—The Post-Dispatch correspondent, called before the Prison Board, yesterday, to testify in an investigation it is supposed to be conducting, was simultaneously denounced and entertained by an artistic outpouring of profanity and abuse from W. R. Painter, chairman of the board.

The correspondent was taken into the office and the door closed. Only he and the members of the board were present. After being placed on oath, he was confronted with a clipping from a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch, in which it was stated that Painter had admitted to the reporter he permitted former Warden D. C. McClung to use convict labor and to haul articles and supplies away from the prison after McClung had severed official connection with the institution.

Painter asked the correspondent if he had written the article and received an affirmative reply.

Painter then pulled open the top drawer of his desk, laid his hand in it, significantly, and asked: "Do you say that that is true now?"

"Yes, sir," the reporter replied.

"Well, that's a damned dirty lie," shouted Painter.

"That's a pretty speech for an old white-headed man like you to make at me," said the reporter, "but if you care to take advantage of your age, why do so?"

Kelly Pool, another member of the board, then took up the questioning, but at its close, the correspondent proceeded to question Painter about his official conduct, when the entertainment was renewed with vigor.

"Mr. Painter, do the members of your family use the State automobiles for social purposes?"

"Yes, they do," roared the chairman of the board, with profane emphasis.

"Well, do the families of the other board members use the State machine for the same purpose?" he was asked.

"I don't know—ask them," said Painter, with a still rising inflection.

Both Pool and Henry Andree answered "No" in reply to the query.

"Now, Mr. Painter, one more question," said the reporter. "When your family uses the State machines to attend social functions and to make calls and take their friends on pleasure trips, who pays for the gasoline?"

"The State does," shouted Painter.

"Now, you look here," he threatened, "if you put my name in that Post-Dispatch you and me'll hook. You've spoiled enough reputations around here."

Painter then proceeded with his profane denunciation, slapping his hands and assuming a very belligerent attitude, to the amusement of everybody in the room. The reporter is 25, weighs 185 pounds and was a prominent athlete a few years ago. Painter is 55, looks older and is much smaller than the newspaper man, so that his menacing attitude was ludicrous. The merriment of those about him seemed to infuriate Painter the more, until he turned again to the reporter and screamed, "That's right, laugh; do it, can't you do anything but smile?" which brought a spontaneous burst of laughter from those in the room and broke up the party.

Painter admitted he had sent men from the prison to work for McClung and that supplies had been hauled away by the former warden, but denied that he had told the correspondent of it before the publication of the article.

When asked again if the facts were as stated, he replied: "Yes, but I didn't tell you so; and you didn't know it when you wrote that article."

PARISIAN THEATER HAS CHANGED ITS SPIRIT BUT LITTLE BECAUSE OF WAR

Some Economy Is Apparent, Male Actors Are Scarce, and Just Now There Is Distinct Effort to Please Americans and English.

By HEYWOOD BROWN
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Accredited to the Pershing Army in France.

(Copyright, 1917, all rights reserved.)
PARIS, July 30.—The most popular number in the favorite revue of Paris is entitled "Oh! Les Jambes!" The old verities of the French theater remain unshaken. Because of the war there is a little more economy in costuming—that is to say, less expensive materials are used—and there is a distinct effort to please English and American audiences as well as French. Each soubrette learns a little English. "I give you kisses," or something of that sort, which the Tommies and the Americans can understand.

For the rest words are not the only things when one is devising a musical show, and the men from overseas seem to catch the gist of what is going on. No interpreter is needed to convince the Anglo-Saxon that Bianca de Bilibao is as the program asserts, "jeune, gentille et tres jolie," and "Le Harem d'Aaron" is likely to be diverting even if the spectator cannot hear the lines.

More Actresses Than Actors.
Now and again the comedians have lapses of language, and an American is forced to let the jokes go slipping by without response. Presently, however, the fat comedian will fall off the ladder and laughing will become general and international. Most of the comic acts are of that sort. Of course, all the shows are much more richly endowed with actresses than actors. If a young man appears in a revue the management is careful to state that he has fulfilled his military obligations.

Thus, under the picture of Maurice Chevalier, the clever dancer and comedian of the Theater Femina, one reads that Mons. Chevalier was wounded at the battle of Cutry, when a bullet passed between his lungs. It is added that he was captured by the Germans and held prisoner for 26 months before he escaped. It does not seem surprising, therefore, that Chevalier should be among the gayest of funny men. We are of the opinion that 26 months of imprisonment would work wonders with American flag. The Amazon, it is said, almost took the head off a Canadian one night when he snored in a box and failed to notice the violent manner in which the big flag was being waved. He awoke in time to dodge and then he shook an accusing finger at the Amazon.

"Why aren't you in khaki?" he said. The enthusiasm for everything American has begun to subside. The reception to Gen. Pershing was the high water mark. The Fourth of July and the demonstration on the third, when the American troops were first seen in Paris, had nothing like the intensity of New York's greeting of Joffre. The American finale at the Marigny last night did not gain a ripple of applause, and at the Fenech, when the comedian asked in what language he should sing an encore, he was met with a hundred shouts of "Russe" to one of "Anglais." The Russians, of course, had just launched an offensive which captured 18,000 men. The next big demonstration for the Americans may have to wait until our troops are in action.

Many Soldiers in Audiences.
Theater audiences are made up of from 50 to 75 per cent of soldiers. The war is not entirely avoided as a subject for songs and jokes, but most of the humor is ground out of the restrictions at home rather than any happenings at the front. Librettists find unceasing material in meatless, cakeless and batheless days. Occasionally there will be a sentimental patriotic ballad, but songs of this sort do not seem to be popular in the music halls nor does one ever hear the Marseillaise in theaters of this character. Only rarely is there any reference to the Germans even for humorous purposes. In fact, Mars trails pretty far behind Mrs. Vulcan in the theaters of Paris.

Imitation of Eddie Foy.
Later there was a man who imitated Eddie Foy imperfectly, and a bad bicycle act, in which the performer called the orchestra leader "professor," and shouted "Ready!" to each other just before missing each trick. This bucked us up so much that a lapse into French with Suzanne Valogre "dans son repertoire" failed to annoy us much. In fact, we did not care whether she came back with her repertoire or on it. Some Japanese acrobats and a Swedish contortionist completed the performance.

There are two such international music halls in Paris, as well as a musical comedy of a sort called "The Good Luck Girl." The feature of this performance is an act in which a young lady takes off her shoe and throws it to the audience. The shoe is supposed to bring good luck, and the soldiers about to return to the trenches struggle hard to get it. A young French aviator triumphed on the night we saw the show, and he explained that he felt fairly safe now, no matter how many Boches came against him, as he carried no less than 25 good luck charms of one kind or another into the air with him.

No show is complete just now without an American finale. The most elaborate one is that at the Folies Bergere, which sends its chorus out for the final number under the leadership of an enormous six-foot woman carrying an immense

LOAN FUND FOR WORTHY STUDENTS ESTABLISHED

Young Oklahomans Can Go Through University and Pay the Cost in After Years.

NORMAN, Ok., July 31.—A student loan aid association has been organized for the purpose of providing funds for boys and girls who must borrow money to obtain a university education, and a co-operative eating house is being established in order to reduce the living costs. Five university faculty members, including President Stratton D. Brooks, Dr. Edwin Doherty, Dean J. S. Buchanan, Dean Fredrik Holmberg and Dean J. H. Felgar, are named in the incorporation papers of the "University of Oklahoma Student Loan Aid Association." The purpose of the organization is to "create and maintain a fund to be loaned to deserving students of the University of Oklahoma at such rate of interest and on such conditions as the board of directors of the corporation may determine; to invest such funds or any part thereof; and to use such funds and the proceeds thereof in any manner deemed advisable to assist worthy students in obtaining an education."

A fund, already amounting to several hundred dollars, has been advanced for the work, and university authorities hope to increase this far into the thousands within a few months. The original fund is a donation. This money will then be used over and over again, aiding young men and women in obtaining a university education. A call is to be made both for immediate donations and for bequests for the fund.

Soldier Kills Comrade by Accident.
BALTIMORE, July 31.—When showing two members of Company L, Fifth Maryland Regiment, at Camp Meade, Md., operations of the new Springfield army rifle, L. B. Fritch, a new member of the company, believing he had the safety clutch thrown, pulled the trigger and killed his comrade, F. Baldi. The bullet then struck Charles Hochans Jr., passing through the leg, a hand and the lower part of his face. Fritch was arrested, pending investigation.

Blockers to Get Early Draft Numbers.
Attorney-General Gregory has ordered that the thousands of men who failed to register be rounded up and they will be assigned to numbers which will insure early examination. They will be given the serial numbers of men near the top of the list already permanently discharged for physical reasons.

D. N. Dewey, Actors' Friend, Dead.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 31.—Dewey N. Dewey, for many years manager of the Bostonians and a friend of most of the great actors and singers of the last third of a century, died Sunday night at the home of his sister here. He was 66 years old.

Good News for Fat Folks!

If You Want to Reduce Ten to Sixty Pounds Easily and Quickly, Read This

Most fat people would like to enjoy healthful, normal weight. After unpleasant experiences with starvation, dieting, drastic drugging and tire-some exercising, most of those burdened with surplus weight give up hope of ever finding relief.

At last a home treatment has been evolved, which is so simple that some may doubt its efficacy for that reason alone. But don't pass judgment until you know more.

A very easy requirement of this unique system of fat reduction is that you take ten deep breaths each morning and evening in the open air or standing by an open window. Take one oil of korein capsule after each meal and before retiring at night; also follow the other simple directions that come with the capsules.

This treatment often shows a noticeable reduction in a very few days. Its consistent use should greatly improve the general health, overcome sluggishness and reduce your weight to normal. Beautifully figure; add to vitality and efficiency; become genuinely happy! The oil of korein capsules may be obtained at the drug store. It is certainly a happy feeling to have a lithe, natural figure—ADVERTISING.

NAME 'IRON MOUNTAIN' DROPPED; ROAD NOW MISSOURI PACIFIC

New Time Cards and Literature Omit
Altogether Familiar Railway
Appellation.

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad, known for more than a generation as the Iron Mountain route, has disappeared from the railroad map. It is now the Missouri Pacific. New time cards and other literature, issued by the Missouri Pacific in the last few days, omit altogether the familiar name of the line from St. Louis to Texarkana, and give it the same name as that which the line from St. Louis to Kansas City has always held. The name "Iron Mountain" will disappear gradually from cars and signs.

When the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain came out of their respective last month, they were officially designated as the Missouri Pacific Railroad. The names had previously been "Missouri Pacific Railway" and "St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway."

The Iron Mountain took its name from the famous mineral deposit at the town of that name, 84 miles south of St. Louis. The Missouri Pacific acquired control of the Iron Mountain through ownership of its stock, in 1884.

How to Clean, Oil and Preserve an Army Rifle

Chapter Sixteen, "A Soldier's Guide"

By JAMES M. HUTCHINSON
Lieutenant Colonel of the 71st New York Infantry.

CHAPTER XVI.

A SOLDIER of the artillery was drilled constantly in the use of his revolver as a weapon of personal defense. He was taught to use it to parry sword thrusts from overhanging cavalry. Each day in revolver drill he was taught to throw the revolver up above his head to catch a downward blow from a sword and to throw it side-wise to catch a flank thrust.

His officers explained to this soldier that some day he might be on duty with the artillery during a successful raid from the enemy lines. In that case, he was told, it would be the business of the artillery to stand its ground and do its utmost to hold back the charging cavalry while the infantry of his own side retreated in good order.

His final business, it was explained to the soldier, would be to make his way back to his own lines with only his revolver to help him.

In the trenches in France the soldier expecting to make a last stand in this manner armed himself with bombs as well as his revolver. But the principle of personal defense remains the same.

One Soldier's Experience.

This particular soldier, who was so well taught in the art of holding off a raiding cavalry foe, laughed at the training and minimized it in his thoughts. He was fighting in the Philippines, where there was no cavalry foe to do any raiding. It therefore appeared to him to be very foolish training.

But one day a Filipino bolo swished through the air toward this soldier's head. Instinctively, impulsively, he threw the revolver up to the guard position and caught the knife squarely across the barrel.

Then he fired—once, twice, three times—and his revolver stuck fast. He had spent all his time off duty rubbing up the field piece he served and making for that the breech block was free from rust while he had never once looked over his revolver to make sure that it was ready to shoot. Dirt in the chamber put it out of commission.

That particular soldier learned the lesson of the service then and there. After that he cleaned and oiled his revolver as regularly as he washed his own hands and face.

The soldier came to regard his weapon as an integral part of him. He knew what it meant when his commanding General counted him for as many rifles or so many men, indiscriminately.

A soldier is never thought of separately from the weapon he uses in combat—the rifle, revolver, machine gun or cannon.

Duty to Learn Care of Weapons.

The first business of the recruit is to learn how to clean the weapons of his branch of the service. Since the rifle is the weapon with which most American recruits come into initial contact, advice on just how to clean and care for the rifle is most needed by our newest soldiers.

The recruit should learn that the greatest enemies of his rifle, so far as its efficiency is concerned, are dirt, moisture and any kind of fouling.

Go to your Corporal as soon as your rifle is furnished to you. Your Corporal will offer advice freely, not because he has any fondness for you but because he has a tremendous respect for the weapon placed in your care. And because he counts you and your rifle together as his personal charges. He cannot afford to have either of you become inefficient.

The barrel of the rifle becomes foul after firing. This is caused by the soot of the powder gases as well as by particles of the bullet, which stick to the grooves in its way out. To correct this fouling a special preparation is used according to a prescribed treatment. Follow directions exactly and you can keep your bore clean.

Care for Firing Parts First.

For the general care of the piece remember the parts of the rifle which are indispensable for firing. Take care of the trigger. The bore of the rifle and the firing mechanism get the first attention. The course of the bullet in its flight toward the target is determined by the bore at the muzzle. So careful must the soldier be of this part of the piece that he is directed to do all of the cleaning of the bore from the rear end—the breech.

Never let the muzzle of the gun touch the ground. There is always danger of clogging up the muzzle if dirt gets into it. Then, when the piece is clean, there is apt to be serious trouble. Never put a rag or a plug into the muzzle of the piece with the idea of preserving it from the wet. You are apt to forget the plug when you want to fire in a hurry, and again there will be an accident.

The best way to keep a rifle clean is by a plentiful use of "elbow grease." Rub it off after every march and every drill. Rub it off if it has been in the rack or in your tent after every bit of rainy or damp weather. Rub it off twice a day, no matter what the weather has been and no matter whether it has been used or not. Remember, you do not want to be obliged to clean your rifle. Avoid the necessity of cleaning it by keeping it always clean.

Keep the rifle covered up as much as you can. That keeps away dust and dampness—the two great enemies of the rifle.

Your Corporal will get an allowance of oil for the use of the squad. The amount of which is allowed to the squad will doubtless seem pitifully small, but you neither want to nor will you ever have sufficient oil to keep the piece bathed in it. After you have seen how it can be used you will find that the use of an oily rag will be the trick.

Cleaning Kit in Gun Bag.

In the butt of the gun you will find a receptacle in which is carried the individual cleaning kit. There is a brush, a thong and a little can of oil. This is for use when you have no cleaning rod and no square brush. It is carried on the reserve ration which you carry in your pack on the march. You eat from the rations carried on the wagons as long as there are any wagons with any food on them. You will be given directions to use this reserve ration when there is nothing else available for food.

Each squad carries a joined cleaning rod to clean the pieces. This is carried in the surplus kit box of the squad, and this surplus kit is carried on one of the wagons of the baggage section of the regimental field train when on the march. When you want to use this rod apply to your Corporal.

You will notice how often you are cautioned to apply your corporal when anything is needed or when in doubt. You can always count on his advice or assistance. But remember that you are a full-grown man, and as a man you have certain responsibilities of your own. After the corporal has told you once, or at most twice, what to do and how to do it, remember your lesson, and the third time go ahead and do the thing without being told. Above all, keep track of your own materials and all of your own property. Do not forget to replace your oil can after you have used it in cleaning the piece and then expect the corporal to find it for you. The corporal is a long-suffering soldier. He is also human, and non-commissioned officers have certain un-mary ways of cultivating the memory of recruits.

Don't "Lose the Bore."

When you wish to clean out the bore—the inside of the barrel—you set the safety lock at the "neutral"—bring it to a vertical position which prevents the accidental discharge without locking the bolt. Then bring the "magazine cutoff" to the "neutral," which means a horizontal position. The bolt can then be pulled out and cleaning rod or brush thong can be inserted from the breech end—the rear end of the piece. Rub the inside clean and pass an oily rag through the bore and the rifle will take care of itself for a few hours.

For cleaning after firing, get the corporal to explain it once and follow the same process each time you have used it.

As you get used to the rifle, you will not be imposed upon as the recruit is apt to be at least once. One favorite "stunt" to pull on a recruit is to have some solemn-faced older man come up, take your piece from you, solemnly look through the barrel and announce, as he hands it back to you, that you have lost the bore.

He will commiserate with you and tell you that you dropped it out after cleaning it the last time through failure to set the safety properly. If your bolt is out he will fix it improperly. In that case do not try to force it home, but go to the corporal and let him show you how to avoid being caught a second time.

If this "stunt" is tried on you, as it or some similar one will be, do not lose your temper over it. Remember it is one of the time-honored steps in the initiation of the recruit. It is only one of the ways in which your comrades are "getting a line" on you.

50 IN AUTOS ARRESTED IN NIGHT

Violations of Auto and Traffic Ordinances Charged.

Fifty automobile owners and drivers were arrested last night for violations of auto and traffic ordinances in the crusade of the police to minimize auto accidents in St. Louis. All appeared this morning in police court.

Twenty-six were charged with operating cars without licenses, 10 with having no tail lights, six with having dazzling headlights, three with careless operation, two for having cutouts open, two for failure to have headlights lit, and one for leaving the engine running while the car was parked.

AMERICAN FELS GERMEN FLIER

PARIS, July 31.—The Lafayette Escadrille, composed of American aviators, issued the following official communication under date of Sunday:

"Bad weather today prevented much work. Our ace Adit. Raoul Lufbery, in a fight yesterday, fired

100 shots at a German machine, which fell, and disappeared in thick clouds. The machine undoubtedly was disabled, but the cloudy sky prevented Lufbery from marking the spot when it disappeared."

Specials—Just Out!

THE big patriotic hits of the day; splendid new renditions of the anthems of our Nation; the songs and dances that everyone wants now are sure to be found on Columbia Records.

Here are the latest—and they are so timely and so good that you are sure to want them.

"The Man Behind the Hammer"—Song

Columbia Record A2271, 75c

A song with a splendid, rousing march rhythm that's a trumpet-call to the "man behind the hammer and the plow" to serve his country in the shops and in the fields. It's a song with a tune that you can't forget—a song so truly big it's simply bound to be one of the real war-time songs of the Nation. And "Strike Up the Band," on the other side, also sung by the fine big baritone of Del Sarto, is another song with a splendid march-time swing.

"The Man Behind the Hammer"—Dance

Columbia Record A5073, $1.25

A lively tune, a catchy melody—here's a one-step that ought to be the most popular dance of the evening, once you play it! And there are bell passages and rattling "drum effects" thrown in for good measure that will tingle the toes of every one-step! On the other side is "Hy-Sine," another one-step, with corks crowing and other novel effects.

"The Star Spangled Banner—America"

Columbia Record A5077, $1.50

You've heard bands and orchestras play it—now imagine one of the world's greatest ensembles, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, playing "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "America"! There's a power, a thrilling grandeur about it, that will bring you to your feet with the first stirring measures. The reverse has the "American Patrol," also played by the Chicago Symphony, and it's better than you ever heard it before!

You can't beat the records with the "music-note" trademark! Hear these and the other fine patriotic records just put out by the Columbia Company, and prove it to yourself now, once for all!

Don't forget—you are in for a real treat if you ask your dealer to play them today.

ELEVEN MILES OF PAVED ROADS IN IOWA CANTONMENT

More Than 4000 Workmen
Are Employed at the Site of "Camp Dodge."

BUILDINGS TAKING SHAPE

Railroads Are Building New
Switches and Street Car Lines
Laying Double Tracks.

DES MOINES, Mo., July 31.—"Camp Dodge," the official title of the new national army, will be ready Sept. 1 for the 40,000 or more men drafted from Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Iowa, according to the contractors.

Work is being pushed on the barracks and other buildings and electric lights have been strung for possible night work, if that becomes necessary. More than 4000 civilian laborers are now engaged and as more are to be added shortly, it is likely the total working force will be brought up to 4000.

Camp Dodge covers a tract about 3 1/2 miles wide and 3 1/2 miles long, with an artillery range extending six miles with a width of about one-half mile. Some of this land constituted the original site of Camp Dodge, the rendezvous of the Iowa National Guard, but most of it has been used for farming purposes.

From a tranquil pastoral scene, the camp grounds have been transformed into a beehive of industry. Trenches for water, lighting and sewage are being dug; camp streets laid out; buildings erected and transportation facilities to and from Des Moines improved. The camp is about six miles from the northwest edge of town and about eleven miles from the central business and amusement district.

The Restricted Zone.
About the camp will be a five-mile zone under jurisdiction of the military, policed with the cooperation of city and police authorities. Stringent rules to protect the morals of the soldiers will be enforced not only in this zone, but also in the city of Des Moines.

Various local and national organizations are planning amusements for the men, both in camp and in the city. The local street car company has announced a fare of 10 cents for soldiers to or from Des Moines, while civilians will be required to pay 20 cents.

Camp plans call for 243 company barracks, but it is likely that many of these will not be needed until some time after the first assignment of men is called. With construction facilities at the maximum of speed, it is expected to complete the barracks at the rate of six a day.

Other buildings to be erected include from 15 to 20 supply depots; officers' quarters, five or ten aeroplane hangars; stables for more than 6000 horses and mules, and various other minor establishments.

A further idea of the equipment of the camp can be gained from the number of motor trucks and automobiles required, totaling at least 1500 supplemented by scores of motor cycles. This includes the officers' cars.

There will be 11 miles of paved streets within the camp, connecting with country roads and city streets which are being improved. The local street car company says it will have adequate facilities to handle the human traffic between the camp and Des Moines, and freight will be handled principally from Granger, a small town five miles beyond the camp.

The interurban trolley line is double tracking from the camp to Granger and railroads at that point have increased their facilities to meet anticipated conditions. One road has built a large storage house and another has put in a 200-car yard at the point where transfer is made to the interurban.

Maj. M. A. Butler, Quartermaster Corps, United States Reserve, a resident of St. Paul, Minn., is in charge of construction for the Government, assisted by Capt. J. C. Kay, Quartermaster Corps, regular army, and a number of subordinate officers and men. Charles Weit & Sons Co. of Des Moines are the contractors.

BIG OIL FIELD IN TEXAS

Dallas and Other Towns Will Get New Fuel Supply.

THURBER, Tex., July 31.—The Texas & Pacific Coal Co., which has been operating large coal mines here for many years, is developing one of the largest natural gas fields in the United States. The proved area of the field embraces more than 100 square miles while there is doubt that area which is believed to be underlain with the fuel.

The company has already completed 25 producing wells of a total available output of nearly 60,000,000 cubic feet daily. It expects to triple this production within the next few months. The gas is of the highest heating quality. It is claimed.

Plans are being made to pipe the fuel to Dallas, Fort Worth and probably a number of other smaller towns. The Texas & Pacific Coal Co. is composed of New York men who are said to be closely identified with the Texas & Pacific Railroad.

Postal Employees Ask Red Cross.
WASHINGTON, July 31.—Postal employees throughout the country have contributed $5,942.11 for Red Cross work. The reports to Postmaster-General Burleson are only partial. Complete returns, it is said, will show a much larger sum.

BIBLE STUDY PLANNED IN MISSOURI HIGH SCHOOLS

Visitor for State University Proposes Giving of Credits for the Work.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 31.—Bible study will soon form a part of the regular credit work of all the high schools of the State if the plans of Prof. J. D. Elliff, high school visitor for the University of Missouri, are adopted. Already the high schools of Webb City and Iberia are giving Bible credit and Prof. Elliff expects the plan to be approved by the State Education Department and to be adopted by the schools all over the State.

Prof. Elliff's plan provides for the cooperation of the local Board of Education and the local churches in putting Bible study on the same basis with the same requirements as work in English or history. The teachers will be required to have special training in the Bible.

Virginia now has a plan for its high schools similar to the one proposed for Missouri. Colorado and some other states have also adopted courses of Bible study somewhat along the same lines. Some of the courses given are "Heroes of the Old Testament," "The Life of Christ," "The Early Christian Church," and studies in separate books and groups of books in the Bible.

MANY SHIPS BEING BUILT AT YARDS IN CANADA

Work Being Pushed Throughout
Country at Request of British Government.

MONTREAL, July 31.—The program of shipbuilding in the various yards throughout Canada is most promising, and there are great opportunities for the development of both an regular steel and wooden ships. The work is being carried out at the instance of the British Government by the Imperial Munitions Board.

At the Vickers yard at present there are under construction seven cargo steamers of 700 tons each, and others of lesser tonnage. In other yards at Lewis and Quebec, ships ranging from 3000 tons down to 1500 are being built.

The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co. has three cargo steamers of a total of 6000 tons, and the Port Arthur Shipbuilding and Repairing Co., an Ontario concern, four cargo steamers under way aggregating 9718 tons, and two oil tanks of 4800 tons. At the Polson works, in Toronto two cargo steamers of 400 tons and six of 350 tons are on the ways, while at the Thor works, in the same city, are being built two steamers of each 800 tons. Eight steamers are being built at various yards on the Pacific Coast.

SHOE MAN AND WIFE IN AUTO HELD UP AND ROBBED OF $400

Highwaymen Take Spark Plugs From Engine and Deflate Tires Before Their Departure.

Two armed men on motorcycles last night stopped Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hiemenz in their automobile on the Olive street road near Woodson road, St. Louis County, and with pointed revolvers robbed Hiemenz of $400. Before fleeing they removed the spark plugs from the car's engine and deflated the tires. Hiemenz, who has a shoe store at 228 North Market street, was going to his home at Overland and carrying the day's receipts.

The robbers were described as youthful and wearing khaki-colored clothing and caps.

FIRST FIFTH REGIMENT WEDDING TO BE AUG. 8

Miss Betty Turney Will Be Married to Capt. Rodney J. Ludlow.

THE marriage of Miss Betty Turney to Capt. Rodney J. Ludlow of the Fifth Missouri Infantry has been set for Aug. 8, three days after the regiment will have gone into camp. It will be the first marriage in the new regiment and will be an interesting affair.

When a regiment is "in camp" the correct dress on all occasions is the service uniform, and no matter what the hour of the wedding or how much wedding finery the bride may wear, the bridegroom and his attendants wear "olive drab."

The wedding will take place in the evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother, John Reid Turner, and Mrs. Turner, in Kirkwood.

GEN. HARRISON GRAY OTIS VETERAN OF TWO WARS, DEAD

Served With Distinction in Civil and Spanish-American Campaigns; Opposed to Organized Labor.

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, veteran of two wars and long known for his opposition to organized labor, died at the home of his son-in-law, Harry Chandler, here yesterday, at the age of 80. Death is believed to have been due to heart disease. Breakfast was being served to him in his room when he said to the maid: "Take away the tray. I am gone."

Last Christmas he gave his home in Los Angeles for an art gallery for the public, to be maintained under supervision of the county.

Gen. Otis served 40 months in the Civil War, was twice wounded and received seven promotions. At one time he served under Col. Rutherford B. Hayes and Capt. William McKinley.

He was made a Brigadier-General of Volunteers in the Spanish-American War, and in the Philippines at various times commanded various divisions of the Eighth Army Corps. He led a brigade in person in the assault on Calocan. He resigned his command in April, 1899, and was brevetted Major-General for meritorious conduct in action. He was an uncompromising Republican.

Oct. 10, 1910, Gen. Otis' Los Angeles Times plant was dynamited and 20 of his workmen were killed. For this the McNamara brothers were sent to prison.

Colorado

If All St. Louis Could Go to Colorado

If every business man or woman could go to Colorado for even a week every summer, the working efficiency of the individual would be raised 50 per cent the rest of the year.

Strong as it is, that statement is a fact—ask any physician who knows Colorado.

The tonic qualities of Colorado air and sunshine are peculiar to Colorado and a positive specific for depleted vitality.

Besides, Colorado is the supreme playground—every sort of sport and recreation is there.

—and it doesn't cost anywhere near as much to get there and stay there as you think.

From St. Louis to Colorado travel on the

ROCK ISLAND LINES

AUTOS HIT TWO MOTOR CYCLISTS

Both Cars Driven by Women; One Is Arrested.

An automobile, driven by Miss Frances Carleton, daughter of Jesse L. Carleton of 434 Lake avenue, an assistant secretary of the Carleton-Ferguson Dry Goods Co., collided yesterday afternoon at Hortense place and King's Highway with the motor cycle of William S. Ballak, 5321 Christy avenue. His left leg was broken.

John F. Mockler, 35 years old, 3701 North Twenty-fifth street, was knocked from his motor cycle last night by the automobile of Mrs. Ethel Wall, 4214A Clarence avenue, at Florissant avenue and Salisbury street. His left leg was fractured. Mrs. Wall was arrested on a charge of carelessness.

MENU IN NAVY BETTER THAN MANY OF THE MEN GET AT THEIR HOMES

Food of Great Variety and Abundant in Quantity—Cooks on Warships Must Be Capable and Know Values

WASHINGTON, July 14.—It is a well-known fact that an army travels on its stomach, and it is equally true of the navy, where the food question is one of the most important factors with which the Navy Department has to deal. When one considers that a ship of war is sometimes away from shore station for months at a time, where the usual supplies of fresh meat, vegetables and water cannot be obtained, then it can be readily seen that the problem of feeding any naval force is one that requires considerable knowledge and attention.

It used to be the popular belief of many people that all sailors of the navy had a fare consisting of salt pork, beans, hardtack, coffee and a few other articles and not much of anything else. It is probably little known to the many inland folks that our sailor of today is better fed than any other in the world, and he has plenty of food which is well prepared by cooks who are enlisted for that purpose.

Food Supply Plentiful. One of the most important problems of a ship of war going into commission is the food supply. While usually the ships of today make but few long cruises, unless they are proceeding on a roving commission, ship stores last about two months. The numerous supply vessels belonging to the navy follow the fleet while in home waters and they carry provisions and general stores which may be drawn when necessary.

Fresh meat and vegetables are always issued to the vessels when in port, and they only draw on their sea stores when they are out of sight of land and when their supply of fresh vegetables is exhausted.

The doting mothers of some of our young men who have entered the service of Uncle Sam as seamen need have no fear that their sons will not be well fed, for the rations served at sea are as good if not better than they received at home.

As a rule the list of sea stores which are included consists of bread, salt and smoked meats, canned vegetables, including beans, peas and rice, canned, dried and preserved fruits, tea, coffee and cocoa, condensed and evaporated milk, butter, salt, sugar, pepper, mustard, macaroni, cheese, catsup and French dressings, vinegar, sauerkraut, pickles, molasses and spices. These are among the articles which may be issued each week, but so arranged that the sailor will have a different variety every day.

Menu for Sunday Dinner. For his Sunday meals he may be served roast beef, bread, squash (canned), coffee with sugar and condensed milk, butter, tomato catsup, cheese and canned fruit. On Monday he may receive a ration made up of sugar, ham, boiled rice, cocoa with sugar and condensed milk, bread and butter and dried fruit, which may be either prunes or something of that sort. With meals of this kind there surely is no complaint to be made to the food service.

The navy enlistees men for the rating of cook and one must be an adept in his line and understand how to plan for any number of men. He must in addition to a certain knowledge of cooking know the food values of the different articles which he handles. Those men who have manned our navy as cooks are always getting up new and fancy dishes, and with the goods at hand often spring surprises on the men. They are just as good housekeepers and probably more so than most women, and think twice before throwing away leftovers.

Your old-time sailorman will readily recognize the names of such dishes as cracker hash, spud hash, burgoo and numerous other dishes that have tickled the palates of the best men on board, not to forget that old-time favorite plum duff.

Bean Soup Most Palatable. To those who might think some of the dishes mentioned above are mysteries, let me say to you that cracker hash and spud hash are made of corned beef, hardtack and potatoes. Burgoo is the usual name for that old Scotch cereal, oatmeal. Bean soup and beans are generally served every Saturday, and a sailor who has once eaten bean soup a la navy will never forget it. Cooked in a big steam kettle, with a big hunk of corned beef to give it a flavor, and eaten while hot with hardtack, it is a dish not easily forgotten.

But it remains for holidays and occasional Sundays for the sailors to get in clover, when the cook is feeling in a good humor and serves them plum duff. This is really a plum pudding, but your true sailor always thinks it is the acme of fine cooking, be it called plum pudding or plum duff. This duff is made of eggs, sugar, butter, raisins and currants flour and water, and boiled for about an hour and a half in a powder bag, then served hot with a milk and sugar sauce. Brandy sauce is splendid for this pudding, but as sailors are not allowed to have medicinals like brandy on board they must be content with butter sauce.

Rations of Men for Week. The different articles of food which form the rations served to the seamen are very bountiful and generous. The following table shows the average quantity which is issued for 100 men for one week: 82 pounds of bread; 25 pounds of all meats, 20 of canned vegetables and 25 saloons of dry beans and peas, 200 pounds of canned, dried and preserved fruits, 68 pounds of coffee, tea and cocoa, 44 of condensed and evaporated milk, about 50 of butter, 175 of sugar, 3 of mustard, 3 of pepper, 25 of salt and 25 of tomatoes. The average ration ranges from one-half an ounce up to a pound and three-quarters, the smallest quantity being of tea, while the largest is of vegetables.

Probably the Navy Department's greatest problem was the supplying of provisions to the large battleship fleet which made the long trip around the Horn to San Francisco 10 years ago. The fleet consisted of 15 battleships with a complement of over 13,000 men, and 6 torpedo boats, with a complement of about 600 men, or a grand total of 13,600 men. To provision such a fleet required more than 6,500,000 pounds of provisions of various sorts, not counting those articles that come by the dozen, gallon or can.

Supplies for Whole Fleet. The above quantity was purchased to cover only the five months' trip to San Francisco. In this particular instance there were purchased for use of the fleet the following list of provisions: 1,200,000 pounds of spring wheat flour, 20,000 pounds of oatmeal, 61,000 pounds of corn meal, 25,000 pounds of cocoa, 20,000 pounds of prunes, about 475,000 pounds of canned peaches and other canned fruit. Over 1,000,000 pounds of fresh beef, 100,000 of mutton, 50,000 of tinned ham, 150,000 of salt pork, 100,000 of tinned corned beef, 50,000 of bacon, 300,000 of smoked ham, 15,000 of pork loins, 15,000 of pork chops, 15,000 of each of frankfurters, sausages, Bologna and pork sausages, 200 of head cheese and 40,000 of chipped beef.

Added to the above there were purchased thousands of pounds of onions, beans, potatoes, sauerkraut, cheese, raisins, mixed nuts, milk, canned corn, corn starch, baking powder, besides quantities of shredded fish, butter, glucose, potato chips, tapioca and ice. Thus it can be seen that from the above varieties of food which the navy furnishes its crews there is no doubt the sailors will be well fed and bountifully at that.

MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURERS TO PAY $278,000 MORE TAXES

Increase for Fiscal Year Is Shown by Figures of the Equalization Board.

The Board of Merchants and Manufacturers' Tax Equalization, which adjourned today after a six-weeks' session, reported that the license taxes for the present fiscal year will amount to $1,742,978.87, which is an increase of $278,864.48 over the fiscal year ending last April.

The board called in 300 merchants whose returns seemed to be inadequate, and after comparing their books with their returns, increased their assessments on stocks $350,000 and on sales, $20,000,000. These increased assessments will produce revenue of $30,000.

Frank Landwehr, a Republican City Committeeman, was chairman of the board.

MAYOR TO APPROVE MEASURE FOR DIRECT SALES OF PRODUCE

He Will Veto Ordinance Permitting Chimneys to Issue Smoke Fifteen Minutes Hourly.

Mayor Kiel announced today that he will sign the ordinance providing that truck farmers may sell produce direct to consumers at designated stands in St. Louis. This ordinance was passed upon recommendation of the Woman's Central Committee of Food Conservation, which desired to have such stands operated in front of quarters of the Provident Association, Jewish Charities and St. Vincent de Paul Society, and at other points in the city.

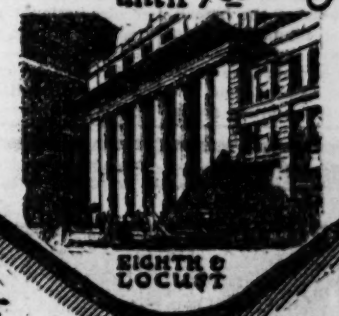

As soon as the bill becomes a law the Board of Public Service will designate points at which the farmers may sell their produce from their own wagons.

The Mayor said he would veto the ordinance which would permit chimneys in St. Louis to issue smoke 15 minutes in each hour, instead of six minutes, as provided by the present ordinance.

THOMAS W. GARLAND 409-11-13 Broadway

GERMAN-MASONIC EDITOR APOLOGIZES FOR CARICATURE

Parody on America Called This Land of "Boodery and Grafters Bold."

As a result of a caricature on "America," which appeared in the current issue of "The Alhambra," the official organ of the Alhambra, a Masonic Lodge of South St. Louis, whose membership is largely German. One of the editors of the magazine was questioned by the Department of Justice officials here and apologized for the printing of the burlesque.

Carl F. Dingler is the editor-in-chief of the Alhambra, and Jules A. Martin is the managing editor. August H. Webbe, C. William Born, K. G. Bellairs and Dr. Oscar P. Baerens are associate editors. Dingler is the editor interviewed by the Department of Justice operatives.

The editors, it was said, were preparing printed explanations and apologies for the caricature to send to all the subscribers of the magazine and members of the Alhambra Grotto.

The picture which started the investigation is a large three-column drawing, purporting to be bars of music to "America." In place of notes the artist has drawn pictures of bars of gold. The heading over the picture reads:

"First suggestion for a new national anthem, by Russell T. Edwards, reproduced by Ameno." A parody on the anthem is printed as follows:
Mazurka, "Tis of thee,
Sweet land of Boodery,
Of the land
Land of the grafter bold,
Land where the votes are sold,
Mazurka's the thing.

At the bottom of the picture is printed "With John D. and Peter P. Morgan on the committee, the prize is ours sure."

Herbert W. Powers, secretary of the Grand Council, Masonic Temple Association, said today that he saw no intention of wrongdoing in the printing of the picture.

"It's just a piece of indiscretion on the part of the editor," he said. "He should have remembered the times."

It was said that the cartoon first appeared in a St. Louis paper about a year ago and that the paper copied it from a Louisville (Ky.) paper. In a corner of the reproduction in the "Alhambra" are the words "By request."

It was said that the cartoon had stirred up a storm of protest among the members of the Alhambra Grotto and other Masonic orders in the city.

Caricature Called an Insult.
Charles R. Silder, editor of the Missouri Freeman, a weekly journal devoted to the interests of the craft, says in the editorial columns of his publication:

"In the July issue of the Alhambra, the official organ of the Grotto, the editor has apparently most willingly and gladly covered the bounds of dignity by printing and scattering broadcast a beastly-drawn, crazy caricature of our national anthem. Next to spitting on the flag, an insult to our national melody is the greatest indignity that could ever be conceived by a distorted human intellect. How this premeditated insult ever passed through the postoffice without an arrest is a mystery to us and we still entertain the opinion that a penalty may yet be inflicted, and one possibly that would hereafter forbid the Alhambra the privileges of the mail.

"We give it as our opinion that the Grotto is making a regrettable mistake if it permits any burlesque on our flag or anthem, and especially so during these trying times, when national respect should hover over us like a holy benediction."

MRS. O'HARE HELD FOR TRIAL

Pleads Not Guilty to Charge of Seditious Utterance in Dakota.

FARGO, N. D., July 31.—Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, Socialist lecturer of St. Louis, indicted by the Federal Grand Jury and arrested Sunday, yesterday pleaded not guilty to a charge of seditious utterances said to have been made in a speech at Bowman, N. D., recently, and was bound over in $1000 bail to the next session of the Federal Court at Bismarck for trial.

Man Killed by a Corpse.
SHEFFIELD, England, July 31.—George C. James, while assisting in the removal of a corpse in a casket at a funeral, slipped on the stairs and fell to the bottom, where he was pinned down by the coffin. He walked to an infirmary, but died there from complicated injuries due to crushed ribs.

FIRST REGIMENT WILL BE FORMALLY MOBILIZED TOMORROW

Officers Believe Order Means Departure Soon for Centralization Camp.

First Regiment, Missouri National Guard, will be formally mobilized tomorrow at Camp Maxwell, Maxwellton. Order of mobilization was received yesterday and officers believe it means departure soon for a centralization camp preparatory to service abroad. The regiment needs only 32 men to muster war strength, which is 202.

Lieutenant-Colonel Lowe, recently promoted from Major to succeed Leroy Robbins, Colonel of the Fifth, will return Thursday from Fort Sill, Ok., and conduct a school for officers.

The Fifth Regiment has been called for mobilization into the Federal service Sunday. Up to last night the Fifth had been recruited to 189 men.

Commissions for eight field officers taken over from the First Regiment will be bestowed today.

Reo Quality is Uniform in all Reo Models

AND REO QUALITY at Reo Prices and backed by the Reo guarantee, constitutes "The Gold Standard of Values"—each model in its class.

THERE ARE NOW SEVEN Reo Models, comprising Fours in Touring and Roadster types; Sixes in Touring, Roadster and Sedan; and the two Reo Commercial Vehicles—the 3½-Ton "Speed Wagon" and 2-Ton "Heavy Duty" Truck.

IN THIS ADVERTISEMENT we have space only for a brief paragraph pertaining to each Reo Model—lest you forget the line is so complete that you can find the car you desire, in the type you prefer, and in a Reo.

REO THE FIFTH "The Incomparable Four" is America's most famous automobile. Standard in practically its present form for now eight seasons—"going on nine." At its present price, $985, this car is verily "A gold dollar for ninety cents".

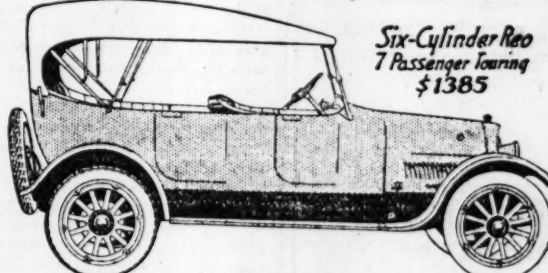

TO REO THE FIFTH more than to any other, is due the movement that is now so apparent—the return to the Four-cylinder type in all cars listing at less than $1,000.

THE FOUR ROADSTER is the handsomest model of its type you'll see on the road—at any price. And, for the present, you can get it for $985 and freight from the factory.

OF THE SIX ROADSTER the same is true, plus the extra luxury it affords the owner at the extra cost—$1385 f. o. b. Lansing.

THESE TWO ROADSTERS are of similar design and identical construction and are conceded to be the handsomest cars of the type—price aside.

FOR THE FAMILY that needs a car of greater capacity than five and yet of moderate upkeep, the Reo Six Touring Car—also $1385 for the present—knows no equal.

NO MATTER WHAT YOU PAY you cannot obtain a 7-passenger car of better design; one that represents sounder engineering; more experience; better materials and workmanship than enter into the making of this Reo Six.

THAT'S A BROAD CLAIM but we make it unhesitatingly—and you know that the word of Reo passes at par everywhere.

THE REO SIX SEDAN is the newest of all the Reo models—and therefore represents the best of Reo experience and taste.

REFINED AND IMPROVED at every point where last season's experience showed the need or the opportunity. This body is staunch in construction as well as graceful in curve and line.

AT ITS PRICE, $1,950, you will not find its equal—nor at a thousand dollars more, its superior. We state that in all confidence too.

OF THE REO TRUCKS what need we say here? The 3½-Ton "Hurry Up" Wagon at $1,125 (chassis $1050); and the famous 2-Ton Reo "Heavy Duty" Truck at $1800—each is the leader in its own class—demand greatly in excess of factory capacity.

BUT THAT IS TRUE of all Reo models, without exception.

THAT'S WHY WE SAY "Reo Quality is Uniform in all Reo Models," the uniform over-demand for all Reo models justifies the statement.

ORDER NOW if you'd have your Reo soon. Present prices are guaranteed only till December first. If you order now and specify delivery before that time, you'll get your Reo at the present price.

A Never Failing Way to Banish Ugly Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)
No woman is immune to superfluous growths, and because these are likely to appear at any time, it is advisable to always have some depilatory powder handy to use when the occasion arises. A paste is made with some of the powder and water and spread upon the hairy surface; in about 2 minutes this is carefully removed and the skin washed. You will then find that your skin is entirely free from hair or fuzz. Be sure, however, to get real depilatory—ADV.

THEY BUILT THE QUALITY INTO THE CHALMERS CHASSIS AND THEN ENDOW- ED IT WITH THE TEN MOST BEAUTIFUL BODY CREATIONS THAT EVER BORE THE CHALMERS NAME—BUILT FOR THE AUTUMN AND WINTER TRADE; AND WITH PRICES THAT STARTLE

There is a 5-passenger Chalmers that has under its bonnet a gem of an engine.

A sporty Duplex that seats 4; a 7-passenger that is just about all any one can ask for in a touring car; a Cabriolet that is rain proof, sun proof and storm proof; a Sedan that handles easily in city traffic or country turnpike; a Town Car that stops one for the second look; a Limousine that is not only sedate but cozy; a Town Car Landaulet that surpasses anything that ever rolled into this town; a Limousine Landaulet that captures those who go in for the thoroughly practical equipage; and a Roadster that compels admiration alike from those who prefer speed or those who prefer beauty.

But this is not meant to be a catalog. It is simply a word to you to come and take a look, and if you want a little ride, and should the spirit move you we can have your monogram, or your wife's monogram, on the doors in quick time.

At any rate—just to be posted on motor cars—come and see how close Chalmers has come to building that car you have so often said some one some day surely would.

Cardinal Trustee Asks Fans to Pass Judgment on Umpire

James C. Jones, in Statement, Requests All Who Saw Yesterday's Game to Wire League President Their Views of Play Made of Them Were Not Close Enough to See.

By John E. Wray

LORD BYRON, the erstwhile minstrel of the National League's umpire staff, no longer sings at his work. No more, as he dusts off the plate, does he verify his instructions to the irate batter, as: "Cease that kick and chase the frown; You go 'way back and sit down."

Blithe lyrics no longer advise the manager where he gets off. The exuberant sweep of the arm in calling strikes and outs has been curtailed into a shorter, crisper and more business-like air. Exhortations have been dropped and Byron is now less an entertainer and more an umpire, than formerly.

But with all the change, Lord Byron still retains one habit—that of stepping on the corners of St. Louis fans with both feet. And in the language of Calhoun, the mascot, they're some feet.

Byron yesterday paraded all over the feelings of the fans, evoking by turns roars of protest from the grandstand, staccato choruses of "Robber! Robber! Robber!" from the thousand piping voices of the Knot-Hole Gang, a shower of pop bottles, delivered harmlessly out of range and aimed at nobody at all, a speech by Rixey and a request passed by James C. Jones, originator of the Cardinal idea that the fans wire League President their opinion of Lord Byron's umpiring.

Rixey Badly Treated.
The Cardinals have had worse umpiring than Byron gave them, yesterday. In fact he handed Philadelphia some very tough morsels in the opening round when he gave Pitcher Rixey the worst of several "corners" resulting in three bases on balls. He called it balls on the first two deliveries of Rixey, some of which looked as good as a pitch can look from two stories above the plate.

In short, Byron was, as he saw it, hawking to the line and letting the chips fall where they would. But the climax came in the seventh inning with the score 3-0 against Doak and his brethren. Paolitto had struck out, pinch-hitting for Doak. Tommy Long came to bat and had struck out strikes and one ball on him hit sharply on a line to right field. The ball, from the grandstand, appeared to hit on or extremely close to the foul line and was a two-base drive, if fair.

It was a foul, Lord Byron said, insisted upon, in the face of a din loud enough to make a front artillery preparation sound like a chorus of deaf mutes. To make matters worse, Long, who was the one who struck out, as he passed behind Umpire Byron he lifted his bat in a mock threat to beat him with the same, whereupon Umpire Byron, when in time to check the byplay, chased the luckless Thomas away from the plate.

Then, while Long wended his way to the showers, the umpire began to arch over the left field bleacher screen onto the grass, by tens and scores.

Umpires Were Far Away.
There was no umpire within half a block and nobody who the bottle could hurt but Milton Stock, and the thrower needed a giant's arm to reach third base. In fact the bottles were aimed at nobody.

But President Rixey rushed into the breach and, with the aid of the stands while the deck hands of Cardinal Field removed the ammunition, kept the play on the ground.

As soon as possible thereafter James C. Jones, Jr., the club's secretary and writer, and the following message out to the league should be sent:

To the attendance at the Cardinal-Philadelphia game on Monday:
Will you please President John E. Wray, W. Fortin, street, near City, your opinion of Umpire Byron's work in St. Louis, and particularly your judgment as to his decision on the foul ball hit by Long in the seventh inning. The game demands that the president of the league should be advised whether the league's umpires are doing good work. But the Cardinals have come to hand relating that fans have taken advantage of Jones' request, it is highly probable that a lesser president would take cognizance of protests made by home town fans against an adverse decision of an official.

Hit Meant a Tie Game.
Singularly enough the next two hits following Long were credited with hits and a score would have been inevitable—a run that would have spoiled two St. Louis games, from the St. Louis viewpoint, yesterday. When Rixey was called out in New York by a decision, the Boston Globe admitted was wrong. Sloan's hit would have scored Siler with the tying run.

But it's all in a day's work with the umpire. Only nobody on the losing side seems to appreciate that an umpire has an error count in his box score—just like the rest of humanity.

"LONG'S HIT FOUL BY EIGHT INCHES," QUIGLEY SAYS, SUPPORTING BYRON
Umpire E. C. Quigley this morning spoke the theory that Lord Byron had beaten the Cardinals out of a chance to win yesterday's game by declaring the ball hit by Tommy Long in the seventh inning, was foul. Quigley upheld Byron in a statement to the Post-Dispatch this morning.

"The ball unquestionably was foul," said Quigley. "I hit between the line and the edge of the grass. I should say the margin by which it was foul was about eight inches. I told him at the time for my opinion and I told him then that it was a foul ball."

SMITH, WITH CARD OF 80, HAS LOW MEDAL SCORE IN MIDLAND VALLEY TOURNEY
L. C. Smith, with a card of 80, was low medalist in the qualifying round of the Midland Valley Country Club Round Robin golf tournament, played Saturday and Sunday. One hundred and twenty-seven entrants were attracted by the medal play. In this tourney the eight low gross scores for two sets of four which engage in match play at scratch. An Annual Event Planned for the Specific Purpose of Again Demonstrating the Absolute Value-Giving Superiority of Famous-Barr Co. With Its Combined Stores

An August selling campaign scientifically prepared in which every resource at our command has been mobilized to illustrate in a most substantial way the strength of our organization in the markets and the direct benefits it brings to you.

It is a well-known fact that the prices on good merchandise of every kind have steadily risen, and the top has not yet been reached. Famous & Barr Co., with its wonderful stores, has grown to be one of the largest retail distributors of merchandise in the United States.

The tremendous quantity of goods we consume gives us wonderful advantages, and armed with this mighty purchasing power, several months ago we began planning this August campaign.

Many very profitable purchases were consummated, and as a result the August Sales will bring you high-standard, desirable and seasonable merchandise at prices considerably under their market worth today. The August Sales in past seasons have demonstrated clearly that they are sales well worth attending, and this year, with market conditions so unusual, the true helpfulness of this event will be all the more apparent.

AS IN PREVIOUS YEARS, NO ITEMS WILL BE PRINTED IN THIS INITIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

So comprehensive and far reaching are the August Sales, involving, as they do, every department of this great institution and covering hundreds of items, that we have decided not to mention any of the offerings in this announcement, but instead, we ask you to

"LOOK FOR THE SPECIAL YELLOW PRICE TICKETS"

MILK AND ICE FUND OVER $2000 MARK. ITS GOAL IS $5000

New Record Being Made, but Every Dollar Obtainable Will Be Needed.

Contributions to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund today pass the $2000 line. This is several days ahead of the average date on which this mark has been attained during the dozen years of the organization's career in fostering infant health and life in the congested districts of St. Louis. The knowledge will bring elation to the children, and adults as well, who have year after year set themselves to the pleasant task involved in this philanthropic endeavor, and act as an inspiration to continued effort to make the current campaign the most triumphant on the army's record.

More money than in any former year is an urgent need, and there is reason to cherish confidence that it will be forthcoming. To make this the banner year will require $3000 more than has "Aunt Columbia" in Tableau.

On the lawn of the residence of Mrs. H. Bollinger, 519 Spaulding avenue, tomorrow evening, another of the unusual number of peculiarly attractive entertainments that are being given this season in behalf of the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund is to be offered to the public, particularly that part of the public living in that section of the city. The eight children comprising the company of entertainers are from the advanced pupils of the Circle Dancing School, most of them being "veterans" in the save-the-babies army, and established in the youthful artist class from their splendid work in former years, especially in 1916. For the ensuing performance they have chosen a medium most happily appropriate, both in spirit and adaptability to their exceptional accomplishments, the title being "Aunt Columbia's Dinner Party." This is to be produced in a series of tableaux, in which there is wide scope for the array of dances which will constitute the central feature. The characters will represent the principal elements having to do with the nation in war, and in each there are to be impersonations in as realistic form as pose and artistic costuming can make them. For the music there will

MILK AND ICE FILM AT NEW GRAND CENTRAL

THE motion picture film on which is illustrated from real life the chief elements in the life-saving work among the babies of the congested districts by the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, will be shown on the screen of the New Grand Central Theater, Grand and Lucas avenues, tonight.

This film, with its array of information on a subject of vital concern to the community, presented in a highly interesting form, is available for use, free of charge, by any motion picture theater or air dome in the city or suburbs, and may be had upon application to the Post-Dispatch. Requests may be made by mail or telephone and the film will be delivered without cost.

Justice Moody Personality $800,000. SALEM, Mass., July 31.—The will of William H. Moody, former Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, who died at his home in Haverhill July 2, was filed for probate here. It disposes of real estate and personal property valued at $800,000. A carved desk at which Moody did much of his work while on the bench and as a member of President Roosevelt's Cabinet, is given to Congressman Frederick H. Clegg of Springfield. Provision is made for the support of a sister.

The Danger of Imitations.

AN OHIO druggist writes to "The Practical Druggist," a prominent New York Drug Journal, as follows: "Please furnish formula for Castoria. All the formulas I have worked with are either ineffective or disagreeable to administer."

To this "The Practical Druggist" replies: "We do not supply formulas for proprietary articles. We couldn't if we wanted to. Your experience with imitative formulas is not surprising, but just what is to be expected. When Castoria is wanted, why not supply the genuine. If you make a substitute, it is not fair or right to label it Castoria. We can give you all sorts of laxative preparations for children, but not Castoria, and we think a mother who asks for Castoria would not feel kindly toward you if you gave her your own product under such a name."

No mother with a spark of affection for her child will overlook the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher when buying Castoria.

Children Cry For

Extracts from Letters by Grateful Parents to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Mrs. Wm. Palmer, Sterling, Ill., says: "Your Castoria has been my friend for twenty years. I could not keep my children without it. I cannot speak too highly of your wonderful remedy."

Mrs. Frank H. Cafferty, of Providence, R. I., says: "If all young mothers would use Castoria it will bring up their child. My nurse and doctor can also tell what your Castoria can do."

Howard A. Banks, of Hickory, N. C., says: "Your Castoria is the only physic we ever give our three babies. The fact that we use it promptly is probably the reason we never have to use any other."

Mrs. A. J. Nelson, of Waco, Texas, says: "Enclosed you will find a picture of 'Our little Castoria boy.' When a week old I ordered your Castoria for him, and I have never been up a night with him since."

Mrs. Eva Ott Melin, of Jersey City, N. J., says: "I attribute the present excellent condition of my baby to your Castoria which he has been using since he was three weeks old. I have not lost a night's sleep in seven months."

be a piano, violin and drum, the latter being an essential to the highest measure of military drill. The whole is to be in one act, with supplemental dance and vocal music numbers to lengthen the evening's pleasure.

The children have already sold admission tickets at 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children to the amount of $14, and interest manifested leads to anticipation of an audience that will overflow the spacious lawn, which is to be appropriately decorated. At the conclusion of the entertainment the young folks, with the parents and other adults heartily co-operating, will sell ice cream, soda water and popcorn. The girls who have organized the entertainment are Kathryn Haesel, Duthy and Angela Wellington, Dorothy Grawe, Ruth Beardslee, Irene Bollinger, Annie Ryan and Evelyn Patterson.

"Red Riding Hood" Presented. A little company of girls and boys residing on the 3400 block of Alberta street, gave a fascinating benefit entertainment for the Milk and Ice Fund on the lawn of the handsome residence, for which an illuminating scheme in colors was arranged, with a large flashlight to emphasize the beautiful picture created by the ensemble of pretty entertainers. The play, "Little Red Riding Hood," proved a happy medium for the interpretation of charming songs, recitations and dances, which was charmingly done, as were also some difficult violin solos. The program was as follows:

Recitation—"Peach Pie".....Rose Everts
The Dance.....Louise Quillman
Violin Solo—"Under the Double Cross".....Joe Schaller
Red Riding Hood—Cast of Characters
Mother.....Leola Hermann
Grandmother.....Hilda Melchior
Bear.....Louise Quillman

$55.20 From 5-Cent Show. The entertainment given two evenings last week, the final one on Saturday, on the lawn of the residence of Mrs. C. Norris, 5579 Wells avenue, for the Babies' Relief Fund, resulted in an addition of $54.30 to the sum thus far raised for the noble cause. There were expenses aggregating $20.00, including those for building of a stage, for a pianist and for ice cream, soda water, ice cream cones and one or two minor necessities, the gross receipts being $54.30. The admission price was only 5 cents.

Mrs. Norris, who gave unstintingly of her time and directing genius for weeks, desires to make public acknowledgment of valuable co-operation from Mrs. Himmels of the Washington Dyeing and Cleaning Co., who donated a beautiful boudoir cap and $1.50 worth of cleaning, and to Joseph Spencer of 5728 Kennerly avenue, an electrical contractor, who wired and lighted the stage.

REDUCE THE OPERATING COST OF YOUR CAR

Making a tire of enduring strength, like constructing a concrete building, or a great time-defying bridge, demands infinite detail in its every operation—it can't be done in a hurry. It takes time, care, skill, and experience. It demands perfect materials, and sustained, conscientious effort.

No machine-made tire, suit, picture, or motor car, turned out under the rush conditions of big-volume production, can compare with the one that is built by hand by deliberate, painstaking craftsmen.

There comes a point in most industries where effort for great volume results in lowered standards of production and diminished service to the public. A point where early ideals are lost in the crash of machinery. Where careful perfection gives way to rough approximation. Where the personal touch disappears and the tire loses in mileage-making qualities.

Perfection of raw materials, the greatest care in compounds, and the keenest niceties of hand-made construction are necessary to produce Globe Tires.

Where other tires have yielded, inch by inch, to the pressure of machine-made big-volume production, the hand-made Globe Tires have stood their ground unshaken.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

TRANSLATED BY HELEN ROWLAND

BEHOLD, my daughter, a bachelor of Babylon came unto me saying: "How, oh, mother, shall I choose a wife?"

"For lo, the damsels of my acquaintance are as the rugs upon my floor, all of which are beautiful and fascinating, but none perfect or flawless?"

"Behold, on the floors of my bachelor den there are four rugs of great and wondrous weaving, and each is the delight of mine eyes and the pride of my heart."

"Yet, were I called upon to choose one among them, I could not do so. For like unto a woman, each is full of charms and full of faults."

"Lo, the first rug is perfect in coloring and beautiful in weave, yet exceeding small withal. It could not fill my room more than a light and frivolous minded woman, however lovely, could fill my life."

"And the second rug is big and brilliant and of a striking pattern; yet there are times when its loudness and its gaiety grate upon my nerves and are exceedingly wearisome to my sight, even as a brilliant and scintillating woman."

"And the third rug is of a rare quality, exquisite and wondrous rich! Yet, it is an antique, and will shortly be passed and ready to be laid away upon the shelf—even as a beautiful woman that hath reached the ripeness of maturity."

"And the fourth rug is faultless in weave, pleasant in coloring, and substantial in quality, yet of a pattern so commonplace that it afforded me neither delight nor thrill, nor anything save comfort—even as a dull, good, stupid woman."

"How then could I choose one of these from out the lot, even as I must choose one wife from among the damsels of Babylon?"

"For verily, verily, a man findeth one woman beautiful and alluring yet short of brains or character, and another woman dazzling and inspiring, yet exceeding tiresome; and another, rich and gracious, yet passing; and another solid and comforting, yet a bore."

"And, in women, as in rugs, there is nothing perfect, save in novels and the imagination."

And I answered him gently, saying:

"Be of good cheer, my son! For thou shalt not stand the chance even of a Mongolian. Thou shalt have no choice; but shall wed the first damsel who chooseth to marry thee!"

"And afterward, thou shalt become so accustomed to her charms, even as to her faults, that none other woman shall seem to thee as desirable as she. Verily, verily, he that goeth through the world demanding perfection is doomed to eternal misery!"

"And his life shall be emptier than a summer girl's head and flatter than a last year's flirtation!"

"But a wise man accepteth a wife 'as is,' and rejoiceth that she is not perfect."

"For peradventure, he himself is not flawless!"

Women as Farmers

How to Be Successful.

IT is said by Mrs. Susan H. Vollmer, a successful woman farmer on Long Island, that there are two classes of women that are becoming increasingly interested in farming, as follows:

- (1) The trained woman graduate from the agricultural school and the woman with long experience in farming; these are successfully competing with men. In so far as farming is a matter of knowledge and foresight, of bargaining with customers and keeping accounts, trained women have a decided advantage.
- (2) The farmer's wife is taking a new interest in out-of-door things, and her outlook is widening to include the kitchen garden as well as the kitchen.

This class of women would be greatly helped if the domestic science departments in our State agricultural colleges, attended by hundreds of farmers' daughters, would broaden their curricula and require certain courses in vegetable growing and poultry and bee keeping. Instead of limiting themselves to the indoor sciences.

A change of occupation would surely brighten the lot of the farmer's wife, and often enable her to hire help for part of her drudgery.

(3) The country's wife is discovering that her management of the garden may bring about a lower cost of living for her family and make an out-of-town life an economy instead of a luxury.

(4) The would-be farmer, the woman worker who wishes to exchange her city job for a small farm.

Then Mrs. Vollmer, in a recent article for the Woman's Farm and Garden Association, takes up the four classes and analyzes these four classes as follows:

"It would surely improve the country," she says, "if numbers of women took up small land holdings—I mean, worked the little farms that the American man has had to abandon. The foreigner has done this on many of the New England farms, and I believe that a practical business woman has some of the qualifications that have enabled the foreigner to succeed—patience and application for intensive methods, ability to practice small economies, and few demands upon her purse."

"I could enumerate many advantages of country life over city life, but it is all a matter of individual taste. Just recently, when I was enlarging on the joys of farm life to a friend, I discovered that she was trying me because I had not heard an opera since I moved to the country! But I know that many women agree with me and want to go back to the land. So let us suppose that a certain city business woman has decided to become a farmer, and discuss what serious obstacles confront her."

"First, we will consider the less difficult points. To begin with, she must discover a bargain in farms with a prospect of increased valuation, and she must buy it. We can all concede that, with good advice and judgment, suburban and country property is a safe investment for surplus funds, and, if the little property is purchased before the city job is given up, it can be used for holidays and week-ends and vacations before her final change of residence. Also, the sooner she buys, the cheaper will be the land. If this woman asks a good business man how to invest her funds, he will pretty surely say,

Seeing Ourselves

By C. D. BATCHELOR

"O H, wad some power the giftie gie us!
To see oursels as aithers see us!"

It wad frae monie a blunder free us!

BUT there is something in the mind that forbids our seeing ourselves. There are errors of character which we become so accustomed to that we have not the vision to see them. The artist finds the same thing true in drawing. An error there after the eye has grown used to it is almost impossible to locate. But another looking at it sees it at once. Our friends would prove themselves more truly friends if they possessed some of the frankness our enemies have.

The Meddling Mother-in-Law

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB.

A MAN writes me telling of troubles with a meddling mother-in-law. He says that his wife is still in her teens.

Yet this is her second marriage, which the mother-in-law, according to the husband, is now attempting to destroy.

He says: "This man to whom she was married she loved, but her mother was living with him and kept her daughter under her influence just like a hypnotic spell and forced her away from him by annulling the marriage."

"She introduced her daughter to me and made arrangements for her to meet me. In the meantime she obtained the annulment. About three months later we got married."

He goes on to tell how unhappy this marriage has proved, his mother-in-law finally separating him from his wife and child, breaking up their home and causing his appeal to the courts in the interest of the baby. He adds, however: "Personally I have nothing against my wife, for she is a good little woman."

"It is too much influence from her mother that caused us to break up our little home. Her mother was living with us. From the very first day that I was married I never had a chance of being alone with my wife in the home."

"Her mother did not teach her how to lead a married life, but simply discouraged her, urging her to leave me. Had she been a sensible mother she would have encouraged her daughter not to make her second marriage a failure. We had all chances of being happy had not this mother-in-law interfered with us."

At the time when finances were a little low the man explains how slowly and surely the mother-in-law turned his wife against him.

Although there may be faults elsewhere, since we have not all sides of the story, yet there is something to be said about the interfering mother-in-law. Many times I have pointed out that the average mother-in-law of today has profited by the experience of her predecessors and has become a better type of woman. She has realized that when two people marry they should be left alone to work out their own salvation. She has learned to understand that two in company and three in a crowd, and that a tactless mother-in-law is a mob in herself.

The woman who has realized that it is best to let the young couple solve their own problems as far as possible has been heralded as the progressive woman of her time. And she is a familiar figure as things are run in the family today.

When, oh when, will such a woman learn the folly of her ways? When will she cease to be the busybody in the home of her child's husband?

When, oh when, will she come to understand that marriage is an institution which has rules and regulations for happiness, or misery, and that a wife's first duty is to her husband and her children?

If mothers would only encourage their daughters how to live their married life instead of breaking it up, how many more lives would be saved sorrow, and how many divorces would be avoided!

The example of the mother told about today is certainly one for every woman to consider seriously.

There are wise mothers-in-law as well as foolish ones. Why not be a wise one?

New Ideas in Lingerie Decoration

"I HAVE just seen some of the prettiest things imaginable in underclothes," announced The Girl Who Sews, as she came in from a shopping trip. "No, I did not buy any," she continued, "but I looked at them. They are actually using wool embroidery—on the crepe de chine combinations and other things? I saw one envelope chemise in white crepe de chine, with all the edges bordered three rows of pinkish stitch in yellow wool, and all around the bottom, at intervals, a row of marigold, embroidered in yellow worsted with black or dark brown centers."

"Then there was another envelope chemise of pale pink crepe de chine which was bound all around with narrow bands of pale blue crepe fastened on. Still another had inch-wide bands made of pink and blue crepe, in one-inch squares which were fastened together. Such a combination of colors as there is in the outside things! Pink has been popular for some time; now pale blue is following it into favor. A blue crepe de chine combination was edged about with narrow bands of yellow fastened on."

"Buttonhole stitching is perhaps the latest finish for undergarments. I noticed a number that were finished off with narrow bands, and these were buttonholed over, with rather heavy silk of a contrasting shade. It made me think of the blankets in my grandmother's house, for they were finished off in that same way. I remember that I had to do that stitch when I was little, and I learned to sew by making patchwork quilts and other things for my dolls and their belongings."

"Have you seen the new sleeping suits? They look somewhat like the pictures of Turkish costumes, with their trousers ruffled about the ankles. One such garment of pale pink crepe de chine was buttonholed on every edge with a brilliant, almost a French, blue. Even the little pockets were similarly adorned. That is really about as simple and easy a style of trimming as I can imagine; it does not require much time or effort or material. It is neat and pretty and not extravagant in any way. Buttonholing in colored embroidery cotton could be used on lawn and muslin underwear just as well, and make an attractive finish. I think I will try it myself."

Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture of putting a teaspoonful of cantilox (which they get from the druggist) in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. This full cup of shampoo liquid is enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use, the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess dirt and oil are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is, while its luster and softness is delightful—ADV.

Vacation Beauty Hints

By Pauline Furlong.

KEEPING cool is a matter of mental rather than physical, process, and the indolent woman who has nothing to do but sit and think, talk and worry about the heat not only will perspire profusely and positively suffer, but also radiate the heat thought like a stove.

Keep the mind calm and always on cool subjects if you would be comfortable during the hot months. Avoid excitement of every kind, especially worry and anger.

Do cool things; eat and drink cool things, and read cool things. This suggestion can be practiced and cultivated, and is not merely a matter of imagination, as experience will show. Read, sew, rest or mildly exercise in a dark, shaded room or in some secluded corner of the porch or under the foliage of a large tree, because it is not possible to keep cool while moving about in the scorching sun. To do so may lead to severe illness.

The woman who is fortunate enough to have a summer home should retire early and rise early, because many household duties can be performed before the sun begins to get uncomfortable. The rest of the day can be spent in rest and relaxation until the cool hours of evening. Keep the house closed and darkened during the day and avoid all unnecessary duties, rigid house cleaning, long hours in the kitchen and other laborious work.

According to Directions.

"WHAT'S the matter with him?" "Chills and fever!"

"And the doctor gave him something for it?"

"Sure."

"And did he follow directions?"

"Oh, yes; it said on the medicine bottle, 'Shake well before using.'"

"That's customary."

"Well, he shook so well that he didn't have to use any of it."

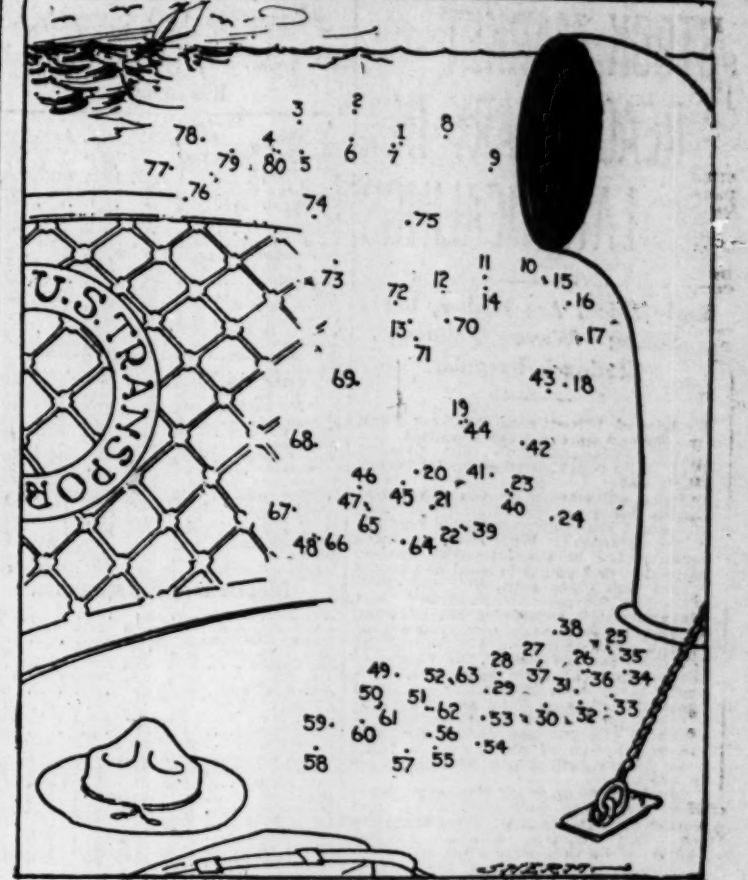

Home-Made Candlestick Shades

AMONG the newest candlestick shades are those made of cardboard, painted and varnished, and they are easily made by the woman with the artistic touch in her fingers.

A favorite method of decoration is to paint the cardboard black for the background and then scatter gayly colored flowers and birds all over it. Butterflies are pleasing motifs, particularly to alight upon. Chinese figures and lanterns are popular just now, when so many people are decorating homes or rooms in Chinese style.

When the painting is all done the whole shade is varnished over, which gives it a brilliant, glazed appearance. It is not necessary, however, to make a black background, to have an attractive shade. Very pretty ones may match the color scheme of the room; for instance, for a room in which yellow predominates, the shade might be painted a harmonizing shade of yellow and adorned with little black stripes at

SHERM'S DOTS

By Clifford Leon Sherman.

DEAR FOLKS: This letter will be mailed to you from "somewhere in France." I am writing it aboard the transport on the first day out, and maybe it will get by the censor and then maybe it will not, but you can at least join the dots and find out what I am doing. We sailed from (deleted by censor), and the first part of the trip was rather rough. As you know, I never was a very good sailor, and one of the officers accused me of spending too much time looking for submarines. He thought that was what I was doing, as my position was something like this.

Remove the Roots Of Superfluous Hair

(Entirely New Method)

"Seeing is believing!" When your own eyes see the roots come out you know the entire hair is gone, not merely the surface hair. You know that hair can never return.

Yes, it is really true that the new pharmaceutical method removes superfluous hair completely—roots and all—without the least injury, leaving the skin soft, smooth, hairless. You do the work in a fifty, in your own home, without assistance. It does away with numerous and expensive visits to the electrolysis expert. Dress away with depilatories, waxing, shaving at frequent intervals. Nothing like it ever known before. Perfectly harmless, odorless, nonirritating. Get a stick of phaeosine, follow the easy instructions, and if not entirely satisfied the druggist will refund your money—ADV.

MARKETS AND FINANCE--SALES AND LATEST QUOTATIONS

STOCK MARKET REACTIONARY IN LATE DEALINGS

Early Prices Are Higher, but a Selling Wave Follows; Closing Is Irregular.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 31.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:
"Price movements on the Stock Exchange today, consisted in an upward movement in the morning and a reaction in the afternoon. With business again concentrated in the industrial shares, gains of 1 or 2 points in steel and motor shares took place soon after the opening. The increasingly important part of the automobile companies are expected to play in furthering our program of airship construction was advanced as the basis for the rise in the shares of those concerns. More than that, however, there was apparently a more cheerful feeling on Wall Street regarding the promise of governmental and military effectiveness in Russia, and the resumption of attacks on a large scale by the British and French armies in the west."
"Early gains on the Stock Exchange, however, were not well maintained, and during the afternoon the steel shares in particular reacted sharply. Motor shares, while they were steady, nevertheless lost a large part of their gains. Business was again in the hands of speculators, and the volume of transactions did not indicate any important interest of the outside public."
"Gold to the amount of $75,000 was withdrawn from Japan, and the neutral European exchanges, especially the Scandinavian, continued their familiar movement against New York."

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story

The Draft

By Sam Hellman.

(Written Especially for the Post-Dispatch.)

DON'T care much what number they draw," remarked Joe Hamilton, with a yawn. "They can't hook me. I've got a wife and two children."

"Well, I haven't," interjected Ralph Coates; "but I have a nice little business that will go floozy if I am drafted. At that, I'm sorry I'm tied up in it. I'd like to go to France and take a shot at the Germans."

"Why don't you?"

"I just told you. You know I built that shop up from nothing and to tell the truth, I'm so proud of it that I hate to give it up. If they draft me I'm not going to make any money, though. Somebody has to do the fighting, and if they get me I'll make the best of it. Are your wife and children absolutely dependent upon you? You know, the mere fact that you are married and have a couple of kids isn't going to let you out."

Hamilton laughed.

"Outside of the clothes on her back, Alice didn't have a red cent when I married her. You know her folks, don't you? Well, if city blocks were selling for 10 cents apiece, old man Hughes couldn't buy enough ground to stand on with one foot."

"Well, she might go to work."

"Huh, at what? She never did any work in her life and who's to take care of the kids if she did get a job? Nothing doing, Ralph; you can't get me nervous. I'm exempt and I'm darn glad of it. I don't believe in going all the way to Europe to pick a row with a fellow that never did nothing to me now how no time."

"You're a hell of a patriot."

"All right. I should worry as long as I don't get shot. See you at lunch, Ralph."

At the restaurant where Joe, Ralph and a few of their friends lunched all the talk was of the draft. The first numbers drawn in Washington were beginning to appear in the afternoon extra.

"Two fifty-eight," shouted one of the coterie. "Anybody in this crowd got 258?"

No one had.

Several more numbers were read. "That's me," cried Coates when 412 was called off. "I'm glad of it, fellows. It will put my business on the hummer, but I'm darn glad to fight for my country."

"Three cheers for Coates," cried one of the diners, and they were given lustily.

More numbers were called off. "Twenty-six seventy-four."

"I'm the guy," said Hamilton, "but they might as well have not called that number for all the good it will do in this district. I'm exempt."

Hamilton spent the afternoon chaffing those of his acquaintances whose numbers had been drawn among the early ones.

"That's what you get for being single," was his favorite quip.

"Well, I'm drafted," remarked Hamilton to his wife blithely.

"Drafted?" repeated Mrs. Hamilton, with whitened lips. "Drafted?"

"No. 32. That's me," replied Joe gaily—then he noticed his wife's paleness.

"What's the matter with you? I'm exempt. They can't take me. I've got a wife and two children, and believe me, you're all three dependent on me."

"Drafted?" repeated Mrs. Hamilton.

"Come out of it," exclaimed Hamilton, impatiently. "You act as if I were going to war. Why, you'd starve to death if I left you for a week. If there ever was a dependent, it's you."

"Oh, Joe," sobbed Mrs. Hamilton, "read this."

She extended to him a crumpled piece of paper and collapsed into a chair weeping.

"Dear Mrs. Hamilton," the note read.

"We are pleased to inform you that under the will of your uncle, James P. Hughes of Melbourne, Australia, you are bequeathed an annual income of $500. The first payment will be made whenever you find it convenient to come to the office."

"Respectfully,"

"J. B. HOXTON."

"Uncle," repeated Hamilton in a dazed tone.

"It thought he was dead 10 years," sobbed his wife. "I wish his money was in the ocean. I just won't go to Mr. Hoxton's office. Then they can't take you. The Government doesn't know that I have come into money."

Hamilton placed his hand to his forehead.

"Hoxton," he repeated, "Hoxton," as if trying to recall something. "My God! Hoxton is chairman of the Exemption Board."

"Bring me my wine, slaves," roared the Giant.

A big barrel stood by the way, and from this the Dwarfs drew the wine into large tankards so heavy that both Dwarfs had to push with all their strength to take it to their master.

"Lift it to my mouth, slaves," roared the Giant.

This was something the Dwarfs had not had to do before, but they tried to lift it as their master commanded.

But the tankard was too heavy for the little men. The Giant at last grew tired of waiting and ordered them to bring his dinner, at the same time throwing after each Dwarf one of his slippers, which struck the little fellows and sent them sprawling toward the stove.

One of the slippers fell right in front of the door of the clock, as Peter looked at it through a crack in the door, he thought it would make a good boat.

From the oven the Dwarfs took a huge piece of meat and from a big kettle they brought potatoes enough for six men.

Before they had served the dinner the Giant had drunk his wine and called for more, the little Dwarfs trembling as they brought the full tankard to him, for they feared he would ask them to lift it again and this time they might fare worse than before.

When the Dwarfs reached the table Peter opened the door of the clock and stepped out. "Let me serve you," he said; "I am strong enough to lift your tankard." The Giant was so surprised that he dropped his knife and fork.

"Where did you come from?" he roared.

"Who let you in?"

"I came in the way you did," said Peter, picking up the tankard and placing it to the lips of the Giant.

Before the Giant could speak, Peter had pushed back his head with the tankard and poured the wine into his mouth over and over in their haste to serve their cross master. From under the bed they brought the slippers, each Dwarf carrying a slipper, they were so large.

Peter the Hermit—Part II.

AFTER walking until his legs were tired, Peter saw the sky above him and then he found himself on top of a mountain so high that the trees and the rivers below looked like little specks.

"There is the castle of the Giant," said the Dwarf; "he is not at home and our advice to you is to hide or try to escape while there is time and a chance."

"But I do not want to escape or hide," said Peter. "I want to see your master. I dearly love him and if you stay," said the Dwarf, leading the way to a big castle of stone.

Peter soon found himself in a room so large that he had to turn around and around to see all parts of it. There was a bed so big he could not see the top of it, and a stove large enough to roast an ox in its oven.

A table was spread for dinner and the top Peter could just see by standing on tiptoes.

The plate was as large as a platter and the knife and fork made Peter shudder; a chair stood by the table and into this Peter climbed and stood up in it to see the room.

Just then he heard a loud "BANG" and away ran the two Dwarfs with their linters.

While they were gone Peter looked around for a place to hide in case he changed his mind about meeting the Giant, but the room he was in was the only room in the castle, and there was only one door, the one by which he had entered.

A fire was burning in the stove, so the oven could not hide him, and there was no door behind which he could hide.

The huge clock which stood on the floor in one corner was the only place that Peter saw, and into this he stepped so that he might have a look at the Giant before the Giant saw him. He had just closed the door when the Giant entered with the Dwarfs running before him.

"My dinner, quick, you slaves," commanded the Giant, "and take off my boots, you slaves; don't you know I always put on my slippers as soon as I come in?"

The Dwarfs, who had started for the stove, turned so quickly that they turned over and over in their haste to serve their cross master. From under the bed they brought the slippers, each Dwarf carrying a slipper, they were so large.

"Bring me my wine, slaves," roared the Giant.

A big barrel stood by the way, and from this the Dwarfs drew the wine into large tankards so heavy that both Dwarfs had to push with all their strength to take it to their master.

"I came in the way you did," said Peter, picking up the tankard and placing it to the lips of the Giant.

Before the Giant could speak, Peter had pushed back his head with the tankard and poured the wine into his mouth so fast he choked, and while he was struggling to get his breath Peter pulled the cloth from the table and bound it over his head.

Up jumped the enraged Giant, running about the room tugging and pulling to free himself.

Peter took the big fork from the table and every time the Giant tried to untie the cloth Peter jabbed him with the fork until the Giant in rage and fear ran out the door.

"Stop him, stop him; he will get away," cried the Dwarfs, who had not said a word in all the strange happenings.

"Stop him or he will escape and finish all of us."

"How can we stop him?" asked Peter, running after the Giant with the fork.

"He will call his mother, the Witch, who comes for him on a big black cloud," replied the Dwarfs.

The Giant was calling loudly when Peter reached him, but the cloth was bound so tight he could not make much noise, and when Peter reached him and gave him another poke with the fork the old Giant jumped and ran, and over the side of the mountain he tumbled, down and down.

Peter watched him as he rolled and suddenly he turned into a black rock with a big white spot on it and hung on the side of the mountain.

Peter ran back to the castle and told the Dwarfs their troubles were at an end, for he intended to live there and they should have their freedom.

All this time Peter had entirely forgotten the little Goblin, when all at once he saw one of the Giant's slippers move and a tiny green cap poked out and two eyes appeared.

"Has he gone?" asked the Goblin.

"Yes, he will never come back," said Peter with a laugh. "You can go home now if you like and I will give you any of the Giant's belongings you want for a present."

"I think I will stay with you, if you will let me," said the Goblin. "I may be useful to you. I know the secrets of the garden and can make your vegetables grow, and if the Giant has a buried treasure I can find it for you."

So, on top of the mountain lived Peter and the two Dwarfs and the Goblin, for Peter never left the mountain. The Goblin found the Giant's gold buried under the castle, and on moonlight night they throw it into the valley and the people think it is falling stars, and the white spot on the big black rock they call the silver rock, because it shines so white in the moonlight.

Peter is known as the hermit of the mountains, and strange stories are told of Dwarfs and the Goblin who live with him, but they do no harm and they live happily, so the valley folk never knew the truth about Peter or his strange companions.

Draws the Line.

"YOU say that neighbor of yours is always borrowing trouble?"

"He certainly is."

"Has he tried to borrow your automobile yet?"

"Oh, I don't think he's reckless enough to try and borrow that kind of trouble."

WHEN a man tells his wife that he is staying downtown late in order to get a balance he is likely to lose it on the way home.—Chicago News.

Just His Luck.

"SO you're going home?" said the old man to the wanderer.

"Yes, tomorrow."

"I understand they are preparing the fatted calf for you?"

"Just my luck. The doctor has made me cut out all fat foods."

Muzzling the Dog's Tail.

"DON'T you know it's wrong to attach that tin can to the dog's tail, Tommie?"

"No, pop, it's not. You see, he's such a good-natured dog that I was afraid he'd wag his tail off, so I muzzled it."

Knew the Brand.

"SO you've got to go to Europe for the firm?"

"Yes, next week."

"Well, I'll get you some cigars to smoke going over."

"Never mind, dear; I'll be sick enough anyway."

That's Right.

"I SEE there is a singing studio over your husband's head."

"Yes, and a dental parlor."

"I suppose when your husband hears someone hollering he can't tell just which place it's coming from."
